

Hopes Dim For Airmen In Storm

Lost in Mountains More Than 3 Days

HILL AIR FORCE BASE, Utah (AP)—Are two Air Force officers who bailed out of a crippled cargo plane still alive after more than three days in the blizzard ravaged mountains of northeastern Utah? Hopes for the survival of Capt. Donald Liggett, 40, Indianapolis, Ind., navigator, and Lt. Donald E. Born, 28, Andover, N.Y., pilot, were dim as the frigid dawn this morning.

Born, Liggett and six other men parachuted from a C119 Friday night when one of its two engines stopped on a flight over the rugged mountains about 30 miles east of here. The plane was en route to its home base here.

Two Die in Snow

Sgt. Ivan Probasco, 31, Buhl, Idaho, and Sgt. Joseph A. Reagan, Nellis AFB, Nev., died Saturday from exhaustion and exposure as they tried to fight their way through waist deep snow and freezing temperatures to help.

A group of the more than 100 weary rescuers combing the desolate mountain area Saturday found Sgt. Reyno Felner, 36, Hazard, Ky., Sgt. Walter P. Bigelow, 28, from nearby Ogden, and Cpl. Ray Copeland, 22, Entiat, Wash. when they stumbled into a sheepherder's camp.

Ordered to Jump

Copeland and Felner, both Army men and Reagan were hitchhiking a ride on the C119 when the plane commander, Capt. Harry O. Blount, 33, Great Falls, Mont., ordered them to jump. The plane flew 150 miles on automatic pilot and crashed.

Reagan died the next day in Felner's arms. Felner said he was quietly preparing his own death bed in the snow when a search party found him.

Weather Halts Search

Blount was found a few hours after the parachute jump. He was wrapped in his chute and huddled under a tree.

Intermittent clouds, snowfalls and haze prevented pilots from scanning much of the terrain Sunday and aerial search operations halted at dusk.

Temperatures dipped below freezing in the 8,000-10,000 foot Wasatch Range section where Born and Liggett were believed to have fallen.

Troopers Capture Three Escapees, Still Hunt Two

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y. (AP)—State troopers captured three prisoners today who broke out of jail Sunday night. Two others, one considered dangerous, were still at large.

The captured three were stopped about 10 miles from here about six hours after the five escaped from the Schuyl County jail.

No Resistance
The troopers stopped the three just outside one of the escapees' home. They put up no resistance. They told police they needed someplace to hide and that was the best they could think of.

Two of the men tackled the turnkey at the jail as he was escorting one of them back to a cell after a bath. The prisoners took his keys and freed three others.

The police said they do not believe the two men still at large were armed or had an automobile. They were dressed in ordinary clothing.

Two at large are Melvin A. McAndrews, 39, (alias Charlie Crossfield) of Cayuta, held on a first-degree grand larceny charge; and Richard LaBreck, 20, of Syracuse who was awaiting sentence on an escape charge.

Say He's Dangerous

The police said McAndrews was dangerous.

The three who were captured are Robert Morse, 19, and his brother, Leon, 21, both of Watkins Glen, who were held on first-degree burglary charges; and Gordon Simmons, 23, of Fulton, who was held on an unlawful entry charge.

Police said Hiram Granston, 51, the turnkey, was escorting Morse back to his cell when Morse and McAndrews overpowered him. One held Granston down while the other took the keys and freed the three others. Two prisoners refused to leave.

Gagged, Not Tied

Granston was gagged, but was not tied up or slugged. The five left through the sheriff's office and out a side door.

Two years ago two men broke out of the same jail by tunneling through an abandoned chimney. One of them, James Carter, 32, of Rochester, was captured after a widespread manhunt.

The other, John Dedrick, 32, of Corning, was shot and killed by Carter, apparently by accident, in a running gun battle with police in Jamestown.

Driver Is Linked To Murder by Stolen Ticket Use

KEARNY, N. J. (AP)—Harold Konigsberg, a 31-year-old ex-convict, tried to use a stolen commutation ticket to drive two women companions through the Holland Tunnel to New York.

It led to his arrest Sunday for questioning in the gangland-style killing of Joseph E. Barbitto. Konigsberg was held for investigation.

Konigsberg, of Bayonne, handed the ticket to a Port Authority patrolman at a toll booth at the Jersey City end of the tunnel Sunday. The sharp-eyed officer noted it matched the number of a ticket reported stolen from the car in which Barbitto's body was found Wednesday night.

The car in turn had been stolen from John Buchwald of Weehawken, who reported the commutation tickets missing.

Find $14,000, Tools

Police searched Konigsberg's house after his arrest and found $14,000 in cash in 10 and 20 dollar bills together with some burglar tools. Konigsberg's brother-in-law, Louis Herscovitz, 39, who lived on the third floor of the house, claimed the money was his.

Herscovitz, an Internal Revenue Department agent in Union City was charged with possession of burglar tools. He is to be arraigned today.

FBI Makes Check

FBI agents from Newark went to Bayonne to see if part of the money may have been among the cash stolen from a Queens bank Friday. The bank manager was killed during the holdup.

Inspector John Perry said that Konigsberg was a prime suspect in the Barbitto shooting. He said Konigsberg was paroled December, 1957 from State Prison after serving seven years of 14-to-15-year sentence for armed robbery in Jersey City.

Suspect Burglary Ring

Barbitto, 26, of Bayonne, had a record for possession of burglary tools in Allentown, Pa. and Jersey City. He was found shot through the head and police speculated that it may have been in connection with a burglary ring.

Cushing, O'Hara Named Among 23 New Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII today called a pre-Christmas consistory for Dec. 15 to create 23 new cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church, including two from the United States.

The two U.S. cardinals-designate are Msgr. Richard James Cushing, 63, archbishop of Boston, and Msgr. John F. O'Hara, 70, archbishop of Philadelphia.

Amleto Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States who is stationed in Washington, D.C., also was nominated to be a prince of the church.

The Vatican said the present members of the College of Cardinals would meet in secret consistory Dec. 15 to confirm the Pope's nominations. The pontiff will present the red hats of their rank to the new cardinals in a private ceremony Dec. 17, and a public consistory honoring them will be held Dec. 18. Ten of them are non-Italians.

The consistory, first of Pope John's reign, will increase the membership of the College of Cardinals for the first time in almost four centuries, from 70 to 75. The present 70-member college, a complement established by Pope Sixtus V, has 18 vacancies.

Francis Spellman of New York and James Francis McIntyre of Los Angeles are the present American cardinals.

Throughout the 19-year-reign of the late Pope Pius there had been speculation that he might increase the size of the College of Cardinals to cope with the increasing administrative problems of the expanding church. Many of the present 52 cardinals are aged and infirm, and their average age is 73.

The new cardinals were notified of their designation by mail several days ago, the Vatican said.

Party Chairmen Are Split on CR Plank

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic state chairmen are nearly equally divided on whether the party should adopt a strong civil rights plank in 1960 or compromise with the South.

This division of sentiment was apparent in replies received from Democratic leaders in 43 states to an Associated Press inquiry.

The survey disclosed some strong support outside the South for dealing with civil rights on a basis which would not drive Dixie members out of the party in a presidential year.

Ask Strong Plank

On the other hand, chairmen of 18 states representing 59% of the 1,372 votes cast in the 1956 national convention took a no-compromise stand. They declared for a strong plank even if it means a Southern walkout.

These 18 states included: New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island in the East; Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Nebraska and Missouri in the Midwest; Colorado, Washington, Oregon and California in the West.

Eleven Southern chairmen were solidly against the party taking any stronger position than it did two years ago, particularly on school integration.

Midwest View

Chairmen of 11 other states, mostly in the Midwest, said the views of Southern delegates should be taken into consideration.

Arizona Chairman Joseph Walton, Maryland's T. Barton Harrington and Nevada's Fred Stroeder declined comment. Stroeder said National Chairman Paul M. Butler had instructed party officials not to answer such questions.

Big Parley Dec. 6

Butler expects to find himself involved with the issue at a national committee meeting here Dec. 6. He has said his remaining as chairman may depend on reaction to his demand for a stronger civil rights plank than that of 1956.

Two years ago, the Democrats committed themselves to "continued efforts to eliminate illegal discrimination of any kind," including that in public education.

They said Supreme Court decisions, such as that outlawing school segregation, are "part of the law of the land." But they rejected the use of force in segregation matters.

Virginia's Thomas H. Blanton and Arkansas' Tom Harper said they think the party went far enough in 1956. They indicated they would accept a similar statement.

Would Compromise

New Hampshire's J. Murray Devine came out for a compromise with the South.

"I believe in a moderate approach to the problem," he said. (Continued on Page 6, Col. 2)

Will Name Date For Benedictine Lab on Tuesday

Steps toward establishment by the Benedictine Hospital of its own laboratory are under way, it was reported today, and a starting date for the project is due to be set Tuesday.

Operation of the hospital laboratory is expected to start in the spring, possibly in May, and discussions of the effect of the project on operation of the Kingston City Laboratory were held last week.

A reduction of personnel and a change in budget requirements of the city laboratory will be necessary, and extent of the changes will be announced when the hospital is ready to report on details of its new project.

Assistance Offered

The laboratory board and representatives of the hospital met Friday night to discuss establishment of the laboratory, and members of the city's laboratory staff offered assistance in setting up the hospital project.

The hospital laboratory will have its own pathologist and other required staff members.

Proposed establishment of the laboratory was revealed last week when the laboratory board (Continued on Page 6, Col. 1)

A total of 232 ballots were tabulated by the tellers of election. Those listed above received the highest number of nominating votes.

In accordance with the by-laws of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, the 14 candidates receiving the highest number of nominating votes are placed on an election ballot to be mailed to all active members on or about December 1. The seven receiving the highest number of votes are then declared elected for a term of three years starting January 1, 1959.

HELD IN ASSAULT ON GIRL—Michael James Hodges, 20, of Route 32, Newburgh (second from left) and Robert George Feldt, 21, of Plattkill, are flanked by Sgt. Edward Walsh of the New Paltz Police Department and Trooper J. A. Kaljian as they are booked at the Highland state police barracks on first degree rape charges. The two men were arrested last week in Nassau County and charged with criminally assaulting a 17-year-old student at

New Paltz State Teachers College on Nov. 9 in a wooded area near New Paltz. They allegedly forced the girl into a pickup truck after she got off a bus, returning to school from a weekend visit to her home. Hodges waived examination Friday when he was arraigned and was held for grand jury action. Feldt requested a preliminary hearing, which is scheduled Friday at 4 p. m. before Justice of the Peace Patsy J. Conforti of Highland. (Freeman photo)

Soviet Union Proposes International Treaty

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union proposed an international treaty today to prevent planes from carrying nuclear weapons over the territory of other countries and the high seas.

The proposal was submitted by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily V. Kuznetsov to the 10-nation conference on prevention of surprise attack.

Western officials said the proposal was completely outside the scope of the present talks. Its submission obviously took them by surprise.

West Submits Proposal

The West submitted a new proposal for a plan of work for the conference. This was understood to insist that the talks be confined to technical, nonpolitical matters. In the Western view, the conference has been called only to discuss methods of surprise attack and the procedures required for an international alert system against such attack.

The Soviet Union has sought since the opening of the talks on Nov. 10 to bring in a whole range of political and disarmament questions which the Western experts have refused to discuss.

Talks Deadlocked

The talks on suspension of nuclear tests were deadlocked, with little hope of agreement. Western sources said if there is to be any change, the Soviets will have to do the budging.

The U.S. State Department Saturday charged that the Soviet Union was trying to sell Britain and the United States a "pig in a poke"—an agreement to ban nuclear tests for all time before there is any certainty Russia would accept an international control system to police the ban.

Western sources said the United States and Britain would stick to their demands for effective controls before agreeing to ban tests.

Making Test Plans

U.S. Atomic Energy Commissioner Willard F. Libby disclosed in a radio-TV interview from Washington Sunday night that the United States is making plans for future nuclear weapons tests in (Continued on Page 6, Col. 3)

Rockefeller Will Attend Embassy Reception Today

By JAMES DEVLIN

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Nelson A. Rockefeller flies here today from his mountain vacation retreat for a reception at the U.S. Embassy.

The New York governor-elect, who came to South America to rest from his arduous campaign, will find himself back in a campaign atmosphere.

The capital city, bustling with vote-getting activity, is filled with posters and sound trucks heralding Venezuela's December elections.

Rockefeller's ranch is about 135 miles west of Caracas.

Going to Brazil

After the reception, Rockefeller is scheduled to fly to Brazil, stopping at Rio de Janeiro tonight and going to Matao tomorrow.

He is to spend Wednesday in Sao Paulo and return to Rio de Janeiro Thursday, where he will confer with an old friend, Brazilian President Juscelino Kubitschek. Send Christmas Mail Now Is Advice of Postmaster

Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk today urged city residents to do their Christmas mailing early and indicated that "the 1958 Christmas season will set an all time mailing record."

Christmas card and gift mailings should be planned immediately, Newkirk said, and urged residents to "check your Christmas card list" very carefully, making sure that each address includes full name, street and number, city, zone and state.

Advance planning will prevent later "headaches" at the height of the Christmas rush, Newkirk said. He suggested that residents "stock up now on heavy wrapping paper, sturdy corrugated cartons, strong cord, and paper adhesive tape for use in securely packing and wrapping your Christmas gifts."

Jury Data In Full Is Demanded

Haver Agrees Not To Divulge Notes

Supreme Court Justice Henry Clay Greenberg this morning granted counsel for Morgan D. Ryan of Kingston until 4 p. m. Friday, Nov. 21 to submit a memorandum in connection with contempt proceedings against the one-time official of the now defunct Ulster Bituminous Corporation.

Attorney N. LeVan Haver, Ryan's counsel, asked for 10 days. The request was vigorously protested by Special Prosecutor Bernard Tompkins on the grounds that Haver had had ample time to prepare such a memorandum.

Argued for Minutes

Haver argued, however, that he could not prepare a satisfactory memorandum unless he had the full grand jury minutes in connection with Ryan's testimony.

Tompkins agreed to have a copy prepared for Haver with the understanding that the minutes would not be divulged by Haver to any other person. He explained that there were other names mentioned in the minutes which should not be disclosed.

Haver pledged to the court to follow these instructions implicitly.

Ryan was served with an order, signed by Justice Greenberg on Monday, Nov. 10, to appear this morning to show cause why he should not be cited for contempt for refusal to answer questions put to him by the special grand jury.

Ryan is now resource assistant with the Ulster County Welfare Department.

Sharp Clashes Take Place

The hearing in the court house today produced several sharp clashes between Tompkins and Haver and between Haver and Justice Greenberg.

The sharpest exchange came when Haver asked Justice Greenberg to disqualify himself on the following grounds:

1. That he had made remarks to the proprietor of a Woodstock pharmacy about the investigation, mentioning bribes and kickbacks.

2. That Justice Greenberg and Senator Tompkins were frequent luncheon companions.

Charges Influence Attempt

3. That Justice Greenberg had attempted to influence the chief justice of the State of New Jersey in an effort to bring Edwin T. Boyle, an official of the Lansell Company, back to Kingston to testify before the local grand jury. Boyle is president of the New Jersey Association of Certified Public Accountants.

4. That Justice Greenberg had made a telephone call to a local newscaster Saturday, Nov. 8 ordering him to appear before him Nov. 10 in connection with two broadcasts made by William Lang of Station WKNY.

He suggested that post office patrons secure from any of the three local post offices "Pamphlets No. 2," which provide full information on proper packaging and wrapping of parcels for mailing. The postmaster urged early purchase of "sufficient postage stamps for cards and gifts."

"Be sure to use only first class four cent, or seven cent air mail postage on Christmas cards. All cards sent by first class mail may include a personal handwritten message, whereas a signature only is authorized on cards that are mailed at the three cent, third class rate."

The Postmaster said it's especially important to include the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Kingston Savings Bank Treasurer Dies on Sunday

HARRY S. ENSIGN

Harry S. Ensign, 74, treasurer of the Kingston Savings Bank and one of the best known bankers in Ulster County, died Sunday evening in this city. He has been associated with the Kingston Savings Bank since December 1, 1904 when he joined the staff of the bank as an account clerk. He was later named a teller and assistant treasurer and became treasurer of the bank on January 1, 1938, serving in that capacity at the time of his death.

In addition to serving as treasurer he was also a trustee and member of the finance committee of the Kingston Savings Bank.

Born in Kingston, son of the late Frank and Catherine Smith Ensign, he had resided here all his life until recently when he made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Herbert Stauning on Meadowbrook Drive, Whittier Park, Town of Ulster.

Associated with the Kingston Savings Bank for 54 years, he was one of the best known bankers in this area. He was for many years prominently identified with the civic life of Kingston, was a member of the Old Dutch Church; Kingston Lodge, 10, F & M; Kingston Kiwanis Club of which he was a past president and for a number of years served as treasurer; Ulster County TB and Health Association; an associate member of the Kingston Mendelsohn Club; Wiltwyck Country Club; Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce; Ulster County Real Estate Board. He was also a member of the board of directors of Wiltwyck Rural Cemetery.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Herbert Stauning of Whittier Park, Town of Ulster, and Mrs. Albert Keresman of Rantoul, Ill. Six grandchildren also survive.

Mrs. Ensign, the former Fanny Charles, died 13 years ago.

Funeral will be held from the A. Carr & Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street, Wednesday at 2 p. m. with burial in Wiltwyck Cemetery. Friends may call at the A. Carr & Son Funeral Home Tuesday from 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m.

Chinese Reds Pepper Quemoy Group Today

TAIPEI (AP)—The Chinese Communists peppered the Quemoy Islands with light, harassing gunfire today.

The Red guns, silent throughout Sunday, fired 25 shells at Quemoy, Little Quemoy and the Tan Islands between midnight and 11 a. m.

Vice Adm. Herbert H. Hopwood, commander of the U. S. Pacific Fleet, left Taipei for his headquarters at Pearl Harbor and told newsmen the crisis in the Formosa Strait obviously had abated.

Killed in Car

MALONE, N. Y. (AP)—Allen F. Goodchild, 25, of nearby Cauteau, was killed early today when his automobile overturned along Route 11 seven miles east of here.

He was serving as a deacon and the Rev. William V. Reynolds, as sub-deacon. Responses to the Mass were sung by the children's choir accompanied at the organ by Theodore Riccobono. There were many beautiful floral pieces and spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards which attested to the very high esteem in which Mr. Ausanio was held.

During the bereavement a large number of relatives and friends called at the funeral home to express sympathy to the family and to offer prayers in behalf of Mr. Ausanio. The Rev. Mr. Martin J. Drury P. VF and the Rev. Robert Saccomani called at the funeral home and offered prayers for the dead. On Friday evening all officers and members of the Brickhandlers Union Local 1467 I.L.A. also called at the funeral home and were led in prayer by Father Farrelly. Later Father Farrelly led the assembled relatives and friends in the recitation of the Rosary. All the officers and members of the union attended the funeral in a body. Mr. Ausanio was the president of The Brickhandlers Union Local 1467 I.L.A., Ind. The honorary bearers were Capt. William Bradley, Francis Costa, Joseph Amato, Joseph Fleming, James Bouldin, Jessie Sandige, Andrew Palmus, William Chalmers, Eugene Parise, John Nagz Jr., Joseph Misasi, Steve Petros, Andrew Washington, Frank Pavelack and Nick Lanister. The acting bearers were Joseph DeCocco, Charles Tiano, Joseph Dulin, Joseph Nalepa, Lawrence Savino and Louis Berardi. Burial was made in St. Mary's Cemetery where Msgr. Drury, assisted by Father Farrelly, pronounced the final absolution.

Ryan Has

Greenberg consulted with Tompkins and that the newscaster was later advised it would not be necessary for him to appear.

Justice Greenberg, in denying Haver's motion that he disqualify himself, said that he had been in Ulster County since June 10 to execute fairly and competently an appointment by the governor and that almost from the moment of his arrival he had begun to discern a plan, scheme or conspiracy to impede and obstruct justice.

Keep After Facts, He Says

He said that he determined that he was not going to let any member of the bar, or any other person, succeed in this aim, and that he had advised the members of the special grand jury not to be deterred or intimidated in seeking the facts.

Justice Greenberg stated that if he had accomplished anything during his many years on the bench one of the principal results of that tenure was his record of fairness and impartiality, pointing out that no member of the bar had ever had the temerity to claim that in any action of his there was the slightest scintilla of bias.

Won't Be Intimidated

He said he didn't have to answer to Haver's remarks but chose to do so in order to demonstrate that the court would not be intimidated by any plan conjured up by counsel for the defendant.

He said he recalled a man intruding himself into a conversation in a Woodstock pharmacy, but denied the allegations as to the nature of the remarks exchanged with that individual—Joseph Forno, proprietor of the pharmacy.

He said he had no apology for his associations with Tompkins or members of his staff, that it did not mean that a judge was, therefore, unable to perform his judicial functions impartially.

Reads Letter Into Record

In connection with the Boyle incident, Justice Greenberg said that if there was ever an attempt to evade justice it occurred at that time when the efforts of the local grand jury to obtain Boyle as a witness were greeted with repeated obstruction and delaying tactics. He read into the record his letter to the chief justice of the New Jersey State Supreme Court in order to clear the record.

In connection with the allegations as to the newscaster, he said he happened to listen to an Lang's broadcast in which the newscaster ascribed "gestapo tactics" to Tompkins and his staff, a statement which Justice Greenberg knew was contrary to truth.

He asked Lang where he obtained such information and was told, he said, that it was "scuttlebutt around cocktail lounges." He said he was against the law to disseminate such falsehoods and ordered him to appear Nov. 10.

Cancels Order

A few months thereafter, he said, Tompkins persuaded him that a good deal would be gained by the newscaster about interference with freedom of speech and press, so he cancelled the order.

He told Haver that a "picture" was gradually growing in his mind in connection with the local investigation, a conspiracy to impede the probe and that no attempt by anyone to frighten the court, grand jury or attorney general would succeed, that the court was determined to do its duty fairly and impartially.

Nothing that anyone can do in connection with this investigation can stop this grand jury in its prosecution of alleged kickbacks in Ulster County, he stated emphatically.

He said the grand jury would go forward vigorously with its work.

Aims to Hit Hard

Tompkins injected here that the people of the community want and deserve a "hard-hitting investigation and that's what I intend to give them."

Haver was heard to remark that this statement by the special prosecutor was a matter of "hearsay."

Tompkins reviewed the case against Ryan, pointing out that certain large sums of money amounting to thousands of dollars were paid to Ryan by Frank Buckley of Troy, a dealt in snow removal equipment.

Says He Stalled Efforts

Tompkins said Ryan during appearances before the grand jury, was shown a number of bank deposit slips from his account in the Kingston Trust Company reflecting large deposits of checks and cash during the period April, 1953 to May, 1957, and that he refused to account for any of them and "completely frustrated our efforts by the grand jury to learn the source of the accounts of checks and cash deposited by him during that period."

He said Ryan's conduct with respect to his testimony was contemptuous and contumacious and was part of a "master plan to thwart the purpose of this grand jury."

Shows Source of Slips

In connection with the bank deposit slips, Haver presented information to show the source of 15 of the 19 in question, accounting for the deposits, which ranged from $300 to more than $1,700, as proceeds from loans, money drawn from his mother's or wife's accounts or mortgage loans on his dwelling.

He charged that three attorneys with a special prosecution "badgered and harassed" the witness, in connection with his testimony before the grand jury, whereas, actually, only $1,620 of the total of more than $13,000 in deposits was unaccounted for to date.

Haver argued that Ryan's inability to recall the details of such deposits was perfectly understandable and that it was "crystal clear" that the defendant is not guilty of contumacious behavior, as alleged by Senator Tompkins.

Haver Cites Law

Law was cited by Haver in an attempt to prove that a witness may claim immunity under the constitution at any time during his testimony. Justice Greenberg cited precedents to the contrary.

Mrs. Ethel Boice, secretary of the grand jury, was called to the stand. She testified that the special grand jury voted unanimously 21 to 0 on Nov. 6 to cite Ryan for contempt.

Richard Brito, stenographer for the special grand jury, took the stand and read from his minutes certain passages designed to show that Ryan was advised of his constitutional rights when he appeared to testify.

7-Month-Old Boy Found Dead by Mother in Crib

Walter Edwin Merrihew, seven-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Merrihew, of 74 Abel Street, was pronounced dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital this morning, after he was found in his crib under circumstances which indicated the possibility of suffocation.

Coroner Francis J. McCordie said an autopsy was to be performed to determine the exact cause of death.

Deputy Fire Chief Harold A. Sanford, Captain Edward H. Albrecht and Fireman Frederick Williams applied artificial respiration after a fire department emergency call. Captain Albrecht tried mouth-to-mouth respiration before the others arrived with an inhalator, which was applied both in the child's home and while it was en route to the hospital in the chief's car.

Coroner McCordie said Mrs. Merrihew noticed the child's condition between 9:30 and 10 a. m., when she found him on his stomach and face down in tangled bedding. She notified a neighbor who called the firemen. She had looked in at the child earlier in the morning, she said, and found nothing unusual.

return address on every Christmas card envelope. "Besides being socially correct, this is a big help to both you and your friends in keeping your mailing lists up-to-date," Newkirk said.

"Through the fine cooperation of the public during recent years," Postmaster Newkirk reported that great progress has been made in getting Christmas mails through on time. He is making many advance preparations to handle the 1958 Christmas mail rush, with extra mail clerks, carriers, and expanded facilities all around.

"With over 170,000,000 people in the United States today, that means more Christmas mail than ever before, and that's why the Post Office needs your help in planning your Christmas mailings well in advance."

Christmas cards and gifts for most distant points should be mailed first, preferably well before December 10, and those for nearby points should be mailed by December 15 or at least a week before Christmas.

Mother Held in Axe

MURDER OF 2 DAUGHTERS

BRANTFORD, Ont. (AP)—Two young children were found hacked to death today in a house on the Six Nations Indian reserve south of Brantford. They were killed with an axe. Their mother, Alice Vivian Hill, 39, was charged with murder.

The children were Nola Hill, 3, and her sister, Cecilia, 5.

Police said they found three other children, ranging in age from 8 to 15, in the house when they answered a phone call shortly after midnight.

Liquor Dealers Bid for Attention With Fancy Gifts

By RIP WATSON

AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Fancy decanters and multicolored, pre-wrapped gift packages battle to a standoff this year in the perennial holiday struggle to catch the eye of the liquor buyer.

Some firms emphasize the glass containers which have been an annual holiday season arrival almost since the repeal of Prohibition 25 years ago. Others lay more stress on the outside of the package, dressing it up with hand-tied bows; chevrons with heraldic crests and glittering metallic foil in every color and design.

In nearly every case, however, distillers hedge their bets. The decanter proponents use fancy wrappings or a distinctive carton for lesser brands. The gift wrap firms, on the other hand, put their top prestige brands in cut glass, crystal containers.

There are solid reasons for spending millions of dollars and man hours.

The amount of liquor given by one friend to another is impossible to guess, but business giving alone is estimated at 250 to 300 million dollars by Schenley Industries, Inc.

The company estimates industry sales in the fourth quarter of 1957 at 67 million gallons vs. an average of 48 million gallons in each of the first three quarters.

Arthur Bondurant, vice president of Glenmore Distilleries Co., Kentucky firm which claims to have originated the decanter idea in 1937, explains the use of special glassware for top brands by saying people like to "trade up" when buying holiday gifts for friends. After all, he says, you don't buy nickel cigars as a Christmas present.

Whatever form the liquor is packaged in, however, Uncle Sam will get the biggest gift—$2.10 in federal excise tax on every fifth.

Says Robbery Faked To Cover His Thefts

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Joseph Len, president of the Depew Polish Falcon Club, has told police he faked a robbery of $3,350 from the club.

Len, 45, told them he staged the fake robbery Friday to cover the loss of money he said he took from the club's treasury.

He was charged with first-degree grand larceny Saturday and released without bail pending a preliminary hearing. He lives in suburban Depew.

Len told police Friday that someone slugged him from behind with a bottle at the club and took the money. The police said they became suspicious because the cut on his head was so slight.

Len said later he cut his head with a piece of glass from a broken bottle.

Buffalo Man Held In Woman's Murder

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Spear Ingram, 45, has been charged with first-degree murder in the stabbing of a woman police said he was living with.

The woman, Elaine Stokes, 38, was stabbed with a butcher knife in her kitchen Saturday. Her landlord, Willy McCall, 45, was also stabbed. He was in serious condition.

Ingram was arrested while he was walking along a street in the neighborhood. Police said he admitted the stabbings. They said the three had quarreled.

Killed by Own Gun

DIMOCK, Pa. (AP) — Gene Gregory, 12, of Dimock, was killed by a blast from his own shotgun in a weekend hunting accident.

State Police theorized that the boy had slipped while climbing an embankment Saturday and the gun had discharged.

He had been hunting near his home in this community near the New York State line.

Says Elections Are Mandate to Revise T-H Law

NEW YORK (AP)—The recent elections gave the incoming Congress an "overwhelming mandate" to revise the Taft-Hartley Law, says Rep. Herbert Zelenko (D-NY).

The Brooklyn Democrat appeared Sunday on a filmed local television program. He said the measure should be rewritten to outlaw "right-to-work" laws.

One of the co-authors of the federal labor law, former Rep. Fred A. Hartley, New Jersey Republican, took a different stand on the program.

Hartley argued that sections of the law have proved too weak and that the law should be strengthened.

Differ on Procedure

He and Zelenko differed also on the Senate Labor Rackets Committee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark).

Zelenko said the committee should wind up its hearings because its purpose—to expose racketeers in unions—had been accomplished.

Hartley said the McClellan committee should be continued. He also urged stricter measures against mass picketing and secondary boycotts.

Rep. elect John V. Lindsay, New York Republican, also appeared on the program.

He indicated he would oppose "right-to-work" laws in the New York Legislature but he thought Congress should leave the matter to individual states.

Gunman Repeats, Gets $790 in Same Grocery

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — The same gunman held up a grocer for the second time in seven months Sunday and escaped with $790.

The grocer, Peter P. Okoniewski, 31, told police he was sure the robber was the same man. "I recognized him by his voice," he said. "He spoke softly."

Okoniewski was robbed as he was about to enter his home with receipts from the store he operated with a brother-in-law.

Last May, he told police the gunman got $900 in a holdup at the store just after closing.

ROAD AHEAD FOR NIXON

The political experts are fascinated by the situation in which Vice President Nixon finds himself as he faces 1960.

The 1958 election results cannot be put onto the scales and measured for their exact effect on the vice president's chances for the Republican nomination. All that can be said is that in the campaigning and voting just ended, he both gained and lost.

He gained because his tireless campaigning up and down the land, with its attendant stimulating effect upon GOP fund-raising, won immeasurable gratitude from Republican professionals in many places.

He lost because the two key GOP candidates in California, Senator Knowland and Governor Knight, running for each other's job, took a brutal tumble. This unquestionably damaged Nixon's prestige in his huge and growing home state, where it is important for him to exhibit strength.

Furthermore, though he is still far and away the leading contender for the 1960 nomination, he is no longer alone. And that fact must inevitably make a vast difference in how he conducts himself from here on out.

To be the front runner when you are the only runner is generally regarded as a most enviable position. With no substantial challengers a candidate can play it cagey, as Thomas E. Dewey did in 1944.

But to be out ahead when major competition is in the picture is something else again. The professionals then watch the front man like a hawk, looking for mistakes, for signs of faltering, for anything that smacks of trouble. Being ahead means being a target.

With New York's Gov.-elect Nelson Rockefeller now injected into the 1960 lists whether he wants it that way or not, Nixon consequently inherits all the difficulties that go with front position.

His difficulties are compounded by certain aspects of the situation. Liberal Republicans are tending to focus on Rockefeller, and this could push Nixon further toward the conservative GOP wing. A large share of the party men most grateful to him are in this category.

But there is risk in this for him. The late Senator Taft found in 1952 that despite their control of party machinery the conservatives could not win him the nomination.

If Rockefeller's candidacy becomes a reality—and much will depend on what he does as governor—Nixon thus may find himself in a mounting dilemma. No longer sure of easy sailing, he may have to chart a very careful and delicate course indeed.

LINCOLN'S CHARACTER

Abraham Lincoln is thought of as a tower of patience, and so he was. But on one celebrated occasion his patience gave out. The story is recorded in a new edition of an old book, "Washington in Lincoln's Time," by Noah Brooks.

The incident arose out of Lincoln's relations with Secretary of the Treasury Salmon P. Chase, an extraordinary man who wanted the presidency more than almost anything. If the president denied a demand, he would offer his resignation.

Finally he tendered it once too often, and Lincoln accepted it. When a Senate delegation demanded an explanation, Lincoln was prepared for them with a file of letters revealing Chase's ill-temper and high-handedness. He told the committee that if the Senate insisted on keeping Chase in the cabinet, he would resign from the presidency. That ended the matter.

It did not end Lincoln's relations with Chase, whose merits he recognized by appointing him chief justice. It is in this little epilogue to the story of two able men that the character which made Lincoln our greatest president is revealed.

Every American likes to vote for a winner—and hopes that in doing so he won't make himself a loser.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
THE UNITY OF THE ENEMY

Adlai Stevenson learned something important during his visit to Soviet Russia. He learned that the unity of Soviet Russia and Red China is cemented fast and that it is formidable. So many Americans suffer from the wishful thinking that some day the components of the Soviet Universal State will fall apart and that when that happens, it will be the end of all human ills.

Adlai Stevenson made the point: "It would be a very great mistake to underestimate the present solidarity of the Soviet Union and China, or, indeed, as Mr. Khrushchev implied, of the whole Communist empire. They may fight like cats and dogs with each other, but as to the outside world their unity is formidable. They will stick together. Theirs is one universe; ours is another. The Polish Foreign Minister used the analogy of a family where emotional arguments at home do not mean disunion outside."

"And any idea that the Soviet Union and China especially can be divided is dangerous fantasy," at least for the present. This appraisal is about 100 per cent correct, barring some sudden upheaval in the world which can change everything. Such an upheaval might be a war. But short of something cataclysmic, there can be little hope for the separation of Red China from Soviet Russia. It is not within the logic of history that there should be such a separation.

What can happen, however, is that in that curious ideological, semi-religious mechanism which binds the components of the Soviet Universal State, Marxism, the prestige of Mao Tse-tung is, at this moment, greater than that of anyone in Russia or in any other part of the Soviet Universal State.

Mao is a professional philosopher. He taught philosophy before he became a politician. He is a Marxist by conviction; he has based his philosophy upon the dialectical materialism of Karl Marx. This goes back to the early 1920's and is unrelated to any current situation. In a word, it is a thorough conviction, long and sincerely held. If Khrushchev is a man of action, Mao is a man of ideas and in the Soviet world, ideas play as great a role as action. In Soviet Russia ideas are taken as seriously as they were in the Middle Ages before everybody became sophisticated. Young people in the Soviet empire are quarreling over ideas rather than for place to which most cannot succeed anyhow because of the restrictions of party membership. The theoretician is an important personage in the Communist Party. If the novel and short story mirror life, the Russian is still more concerned with ideas—with the Russian "soul"—than the people of the Western world who devote themselves so much to action. Even the "Beatniks" of our country are not thinking youth, but a nihilistic youth, frightened by the disappointments of their era. There are no heroic figures among them.

If Senator John Kennedy and Governor Nelson Rockefeller are attractive to the younger generation, they have not proved themselves idealistic leaders, speaking in the voice of prophecy, but rather young men of affairs. America has neither a Savonarola nor a Leon Trotsky. The spirit of revolt from cynicism and despair is not yet in our youth, but the Russian youth believe that the future is theirs.

To find a similar unity in the West requires thinking out our basic problems. Curiously our first problem is not economic but spiritual. We need to believe in something positively. Most of our religions have become humanistic rather than theistic; we concern ourselves with the "greatness of man" rather than with the glory of God. Even those fundamentalists who believe in the efficacy of prayer, give it a functional purpose like hooking a watch in a pawnshop. One does not pray for something; one prays to God as an act of adoration which is soul cleansing. It is an important point because it could give direction to Western life.

On the economic side, the West needs unity. The same kind of unity that the Soviet Universal State has. While the competitive system among Western countries weakens each one of them, the unity of the economies of the Soviet countries strengthens all of them. The West needs even greater economic unity if it is to survive in the long years of war ahead of us.

Woman Who Has Hysterectomy Needn't Fear Personality Changes

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Today's first question is undoubtedly a matter of deep concern to many married couples.

Q—Recently I had a hysterectomy. I wish you would discuss what is done in this operation and how it may affect a person.—Mrs. S.

A—Ordinarily a hysterectomy today consists in the removal of the womb, leaving the ovaries in place. The general effect consequently is the cessation of monthly periods, but the continuation of hormone secretion from the ovaries (providing the woman is young enough to continue to manufacture them).

There appears to be rumors that this operation exerts an unfavorable effect on marital relations, but there is no reason why this should be the case. Actually, in many instances marital relations appear to improve following a hysterectomy because of the removal of the fear of unwanted pregnancy.

Q—My married daughter is the mother of five children and does all her own housework. After her last child she obtained a prescription for benzadrine to lose weight. She quickly discovered the extra energy this gave her, but she continues to take about one tablet a day and says she feels absolutely listless without it. What is your opinion?—Mrs. A. L.

A—I believe that if at all possible people should get along without artificial stimulation. In this instance the young woman's fatigue seems to be simply the result of too much work for too long.

Although easier said than done, relief from housework, care of children and routine by means of a nice vacation might help her to discontinue the use of the drug.

Q—I recently read that some tea which was shipped to New York contained radioactivity. Does this mean that tea drinking can be dangerous?—T. R.

A—This was an interesting story. When the tea was landed, the U. S. Food and Drug Administration went right to work and examined it, both by usual methods and by deliberately brewing it strong.

Without going into details of the tests, the conclusion reached was that the amount of radioactivity present in the tea was well below established tolerance, was safe and could be released for sale. The promptness and thoroughness of these studies show how well we are protected against potential hazards.

Q—I have enlarged pores on my face and am only 36. Is there anything I can do?—S. P.

A—It seems generally hard to correct this once it has occurred. Careful cleanliness and possibly the use of astringent lotions might help. However, this is a skin problem and I would not try anything without getting the O.K. of a skin specialist.

Q—Is it harmful to take from one-half to one teaspoon full of baking soda in water almost every night for indigestion?—Mrs. S.

A—It hardly seems that this would produce harm. However, indigestion is a vague name and the soda might be concealing the symptoms of something which requires more precise treatment.

Long continued indigestion could mean the presence of a stomach ulcer or something else in the digestive tract and should be investigated rather than just treated by taking baking soda.

Easy to Hit but It Won't Go Far

Washington News

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

When ex-President Herbert Hoover's second Commission on Organization of the Government filed its final report in January, 1955, it estimated that savings of 8.5 billion dollars a year might be made if its recommendations were followed.

The first Hoover Commission (1947-49) was responsible for government economies now put at 2.6 billion dollars a year, under a revised estimate. Three and a half years after the second commission (1953-55) filed its 300 recommendations, President Hoover says that savings from the 64 per cent adopted will eventually be "upwards of three billion dollars a year."

Robert L. McCormick, executive director of the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report says that any comparison between the three-billion-dollar accomplishment and the 8.5-billion-dollar anticipated savings misrepresents the situation.

THE 8.5 BILLION figure was obtained by adding the savings estimated from 13 of the 19 Hoover task forces. The other six refused to make any estimates on how much their recommendations might save. But there was much overlapping in the estimates that were made. And the research is old.

Mr. McCormick admits, however, that there are large areas of government operation still untouched by reorganization economies. The Citizens Committee, under Clarence Francis, is closing up shop. There is no evidence that anyone is planning to carry on the Hoover job to completion.

What reorganization has been put through did not touch some of the major areas where savings could be made.

Government medical services were not reorganized and put on a business basis. Savings of up to 290 million dollars a year were considered possible by this task force.

Little progress has been made on reorganizing the Civil Service. The task force that studied this thought savings of 50 million dollars might be made here.

PUTTING THE GOVERNMENT'S water resources and public power administration on a self-sustaining basis has likewise made no headway. This task force would make no estimate on what might be saved. But it pointed to total authorized expenditures of 70 billion dollars in this field to indicate the vast area in which economies might be made.

Although these are three of the biggest fish that got away from the Hoover reorganization dragnet, the savings that have been made are substantial.

Perhaps the biggest economy has been the return to the treasury of over 3.4 billion dollars from 1955 through 1957 through reduction of Defense Department inventories.

Over 700 government enterprises have been closed. While many of these were small, the program continues and is now getting after the larger business-type operations.

Government property declared surplus and disposed of has increased from 800 million to over two billion dollars in one year. For instance, over a million acres of government land has been declared excess and put on the tax rolls.

THE AMOUNT OF PROPERTY declared surplus by one agency and transferred to other agencies has also doubled. This saves the government new procurement at high prices.

Institution of uniform cost-accounting for all government agencies in 1956 put the controllable budget of 60 million dollars under scrutiny for economies. But specific savings estimates have not yet been made.

Two major reorganization actions by the last Congress are expected to result in big future savings.

One authorizes the Secretary of Defense to establish a single purchasing agency for supplies used by all the armed services. This procurement now runs to over ten billion dollars a year. One per cent savings would be 100 million dollars, which ain't chicken feed.

The other is a requirement that in the future all government appropriations carried over from one year to the next will be subject to annual review and reappropriation. Since these carryovers now run 70 billion dollars a year, a one per cent cut would mean another 700 million dollars saved.

2 P. C. of Eligible Voters Decided Congress Election

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Less than 2 per cent of the eligible voters in the United States decided the Congressional election this year—about 1,600,000 out of 100,000,000.

These facts emerge from an examination of the statistics of the voting outside the solid South and the border states, nearly all of whose Congress districts usually vote under the Democratic party label.

Approximately 52 per cent of the voters in the North voted Democratic this time and 48 per cent Republican. This is a spread of 4 percentage points, and out of the approximately 41,000,000 votes cast in the Congressional elections in the West, North and East, this means that about 1,600,000 voters swung the election.

These are the "switch voters." Some times they are called "independents," though this word implies that they carefully weigh the merits of the argument and come to a judicial conclusion. Actually, they are the people who vote "against" the party in power no matter what its name. They don't vote in favor of a particular set of policies or programs—they simply record their disapproval of things as they are.

Dr. George Gallup, the eminent director of public-opinion surveys, discussing this very point in an article last week, said:

"It is important in describing what happened to note that a great deal of the gain in the Democratic vote since 1954 occurred among farmers, business and professional people, and white-collar workers, and the 'forgotten salaried man.' Among manual workers and union members, the division of the vote this year was virtually the same as four years ago."

The economic "recession" affected, on the whole, a relatively small group, since unemployment itself was geographically "spotty." Yet it doesn't take many voters in the so-called "discontented" group to swing an election. By spreading 1,600,000 votes over a relatively few Congress districts, it is possible for a Democratic majority of seats to be attained.

Subtracting the 129 Democrats elected—hardly any of them "modernists"—in the districts in the South and border states which usually go Democratic and where there are rarely any contesting candidates offered by the Republican party, the score in the November election in the North, East and West this year was 154 Democrats to 141 Republicans. This is a margin of 13. Not included in the 141 Republican total are the 11 Republicans elected in the border states and in the South, nearly every one of whom opposed "integration." Actually, it seems plausible to estimate that far fewer than 1,600,000 votes swung the election. This is because in many districts in the Northern cities usually Democratic, the total was simply increased beyond the normal figure.

Why, it may be asked, was it possible for such a small percentage of the total eligible vote to be so influential in the result? One answer is that the "contented" citizens for the most part didn't go to the polls, nor did all the protesting individuals inside the Republican party. Lots of the "indifferent" Republicans did not even register. Many are in the class who, in an economic sense, are contented but fail to vote for a variety of reasons—usually they don't see much difference between the "modern Republicans" and the New Deal Democrats.

The "discontented" vote is the most part, however, not only registered but cast its ballot. Aside from unemployment, the "discontent" on the Republican side was greatest among farmers and small business men. "Modern Republicanism" hasn't offered as yet anything to attract them. In many of these districts "modern Republican" nominees also went down to defeat.

Not all the "discontent" was economic. It should give the new champions of "modern Republicanism" something to think about. They should take a second look at California, where a private poll made during the recent campaign by a reputable organization showed that "integration" was placed higher on the list of issues by those citizens interviewed than any other single topic of national importance. Resentment over the use of Federal troops at Little Rock and over enforced "integration" was given by many a voter as his reason for being at odds with the Republican party. The so-called "appreciation" vote on this issue was negligible, as was to be seen also in the big Eastern cities where the Negro wards went almost as heavily Democratic in the Congressional elections as before.

Will 1960's Presidential election be any different? Unfortunately, under the present system, the majority party in control of both houses of Congress will not be held responsible for what happens in the next two years.

Against Present Regime

The vote in 1960 will be "against" the present Republican regime in the White House unless there's a boom in employment and some of the emotional issues are cleared up. It will not matter much who the candidates are in either party—how personable or glamorous the nominee on one side or how unspectacular and inadequate a personality on the other side. If the mood of the voters is negative, again, the Democrats will have another victory, and it will not be close either.

The only chance of a close election may come if the South bolts the Democratic party. This could throw the Presidential election into the House of Representatives for decision. It might result from use of a "write-in" vote for Presidential electors. Such a formula would permit the regular nominees of the Democratic party for the House and Senate to win while giving the electoral votes of each state to independent candidates outside the Democratic party. It could mount up to a block of 131 electoral votes that might prevent either major party candidate from getting a majority in the electoral college. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—I had hoped to greet Dr. Sara Jordan with a rapturous essay on her debut in my profession as "columnist" on the ills that flesh is heir to, but this great lady of the Lahey Clinic in Boston, now retired at 74, has been praised beyond my poor powers to add to. I could have exclaimed, "Love, here is my heart!" For I owe her my life, and her casual sacrifice in coming to the airport in a blinding rain at night to ride in the ambulance beside me to New England Baptist Hospital was unspeakably touching. But I am only a cracked and quivering treble in a great chorus.

I have wanted, however, to do something for Doctor Sara, the endearment which the other doctors and the nurses used when she was not in earshot, by way of heartening her as she has heartened many and many a one. So, when I saw her name on the wagons roaring through midtown I phoned her. "Sara, your name is on the wagons!"

I could almost see her wince. Vaguely, so as not to hurt me, she explained that in her old profession this was not quite the thing.

"Yes," I hollered, "but this is journalism and your name on the wagons is accolade. You are up there with the bowling editor and Elsa Maxwell. It took me 30 years to get my name on a wagon!"

If you look at it that way," she said, trailing off. "I suppose I will get adjusted. But perhaps you could tell me this: How does one write best? Do you write in a study?"

So I said I would write her a discussion and this is that: A long time ago, a beautiful, black-eyed, auburn-haired girl named Katherine Brush took New York by storm and moved into the biggest apartment in town. She and her husband, Bobby Winans, were not content with a duplex. They got a triplex apartment with a living room tall enough for a ski-jump.

Joe Urban, the great designer of Ziegfeld sets, created a circular study for Kay, like a drum or an ashan, three stories high. Joe had had him Urban-blue the walls and ceiling. There were unusual lights. The waste-baskets were like jewel cases and fit only for discarded snatches of immortal prose.

Bobby bought the biggest set of miniature trains in the world, with bridges, gorges, grand canals, wrecks, miles and miles of tracks and an aquarium just a few drops smaller than the Pacific Ocean, with whales and sea serpents.

I am telling you, this was a hell of a place.

Leon Gordon, the portrait painter, came into the ski-jump room and, according to his formula, bellowed: "That wall cries out for something!"

"Such as a portrait?" Bobby asked. "The very thing," Leon agreed and that was how Kay's son, Tommy, happens to have in his possession today a portrait of the diminutive Kay Brush nine feet tall. James Montgomery Flagg's first comment was, "My God, don't tell me you are happy here!" and Rube Goldberg said, "all it needs is a Cadillac on velvet."

Kay had thousands of sharp pencils on a crescent desk, unlike any copy desk in any city room, with a top of blue leather and built of rose-mahogany. Her typewriter was of a French enamel called cloisonne, which Tiffany ran up for her. The words it wrote were out of this world.

That was a problem. Katharine Brush wrote this world's words and something was wrong.

Joe Urban had not reckoned on the acoustics. The tapping of a typewriter sounded like an air-hammer. Kay dropped a paper-clip on the blue leather desk and it clattered like a crowbar on a steel deck.

The poor girl was going crazy. So, in desperation, she climbed up behind the Christmas ornaments in the big closet and got out her old-time Remington rock-crusher with a bell like the gong of hook and ladder 8, and an old bridge table and set it up in her little sewing room. And, in three weeks, Katharine Brush knocked off Young Man of Manhattan, the deathless epic of the era of wonderful non-sense and prohibition.

Blessed Doctor Sara, does that answer your question?

Educational Group Sets Panel Talk Thursday at MJM

The Myron J. Michael School Educational Association will feature a panel discussion on the junior high school program Thursday in the MJM School auditorium at 7:45 p. m.

Panel members will include Daniel Allen, guidance counselor; Mrs. Anna May Young, school nurse; Mrs. Catherine Ellsworth, cafeteria manager; Miss Rita Hand, dental hygienist; Herbert Dantes, school psychologist; and Stephen Hyatt, principal.

A short overview of the organization and program of the school and the educational opportunities offered to the students, will be presented by the members of the panel. A question and answer period will follow.

The Rev. Everett Herron, president of the association, extends a cordial invitation in behalf of the school and the association to parents and friends to attend this important meeting.

Refreshments will be served in the cafeteria at the close of the meeting.

Squeeze Stops Heart Threat

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

With 18 points plus three ten-spots, Dorothy Forstmann of Greenwich, Conn., reached six no-trump after her partner opened the bidding. She used Blackwood to check for aces and then bid the slam.

With a reasonable break in hearts the slam would have been a lay-down, but the hearts split five-one and Mrs. Forstmann needed a three-suit squeeze to make her contract.

She won the opening club lead and played a heart to dummy's jack. East took his ace and led a second club. Dorothy took the trick, then played a high heart and noted the bad break but was not discouraged in the slightest. East had the long hearts and West almost surely held the jack and ten of clubs so the double squeeze appeared to be almost automatic.

It was! Dorothy ran out all the diamonds and East had to let go a spade on the last lead of that suit. Now Dorothy cashed her two remaining high hearts and West was also squeezed out of a spade on the last heart lead. Dorothy simply discarded dummy's last club and made three spade tricks and her slam.

It is worthy of note that a spade opening and spade continuation would have broken up the squeeze but West had a normal club lead.

Tuscarora Fight May Stall Power Job in 2 Months

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)

The State Power Authority says the Tuscaroras' legal battle to hold their land may halt work on the Niagara power project within two months.

The authority said it was running out of money.

It also said that, if some site other than part of the reservation has to be used for a reservoir, the cost of the $705,000,000 project may be increased by nearly a third.

These were the developments over the weekend:

1. Robert Moses, chairman of the State Power Authority, said Sunday lack of money might halt work if the legal dispute with the Tuscarora Indians was not settled quickly.

He said the authority would run out of money in January and could not raise more money by selling bonds without first guaranteeing that serious litigation was not underway.

Would Be More Costly

2. Spokesmen for the authority said in Buffalo that if the Tuscaroras' land cannot be used for part of a reservoir and an alternate site has to be chosen, it will cost up to $200,000,000 more.

3. Engineers for the authority at Niagara Falls said they will continue to work on the reservation even though the authority might be liable for triple damages.

Work already has started on some of the Indian land under lower court orders that granted immediate, although not permanent, possession of the land.

The authority is condemning about a fifth of the Indians 6,250-acre reservation for the reservoir. A U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York City upheld the condemnation and the U. S. Supreme Court has refused to review the decision.

Court Favors Indians

Last Friday however, a U. S. Court of Appeals in Washington ruled in favor of the Indians. The court ordered the Federal Power Commission to review its basic license to the authority.

The court said the FPC must prove that the proposed use of the Indian land will not interfere with the purpose for which the reservation was established.

This is the ruling that Moses says may force work on the project to be halted. He has asked the FPC to make its finding as soon as possible.

And this ruling, Moses says, conflicts with the decision by the U. S. Circuit Court in New York that upheld the condemnation.

The authority has argued that the land involved is not covered by treaty with the United States, but was bought by the Indians just like any other piece of land. The federal court indicated Friday that it does not agree with this argument.

If you are like this man, over the years you have probably purchased a variety of Life insurance policies for varying amounts, with different beneficiaries and varying methods of settlement.

At the time you bought each policy, its purpose was clear. However, looked at today, in the light of changing conditions, do these policies still do the job you intended them to do? The answer to that question calls for a study of your program.

The Metropolitan has a brochure available which will help you get your program under control and up to date, so that it will always be easy to review and understand.

Called "MY LIFE INSURANCE

PROGRAM," it is a loose-leaf booklet, custom-made to your needs by the man especially trained to do the job—your Metropolitan Representative. Here is what it contains:

1. A calendar showing the premium due dates on all your policies.
2. Basic data on your policies and how their benefits are to be paid.
3. A detailed estimate of what you and your family can expect from Social Security and what retirement benefits you can expect from both your Social Security and your Life insurance.
4. A detailed description with charts showing exactly what your dependents will have from insurance and Social Security in the event of your death.

In other words, this brochure organizes all the necessary information about your Life insurance program in one readily available source.

It will tell you what your situation is now and where you will stand at any given time in the future.

Your Metropolitan Representative will prepare this valuable record for you with no obligation on your part.

Four big reasons why
FORD IS OUTSELLING
ALL OTHER '59 CARS

AT THE BRUSSELS WORLD'S FAIR, the '59 Fords were awarded the Gold Medal by the Comité Français de l'Élégance for the most beautiful proportions and styling elegance in every graceful line.

The world's best-selling car is the car with Thunderbird elegance

In the great styling decision of the year, the American public has already shown a clear preference for the new Fords. Ford sales are way ahead of all competition.

What makes the '59 Ford such an immediate success? One prime reason, heard in showrooms from coast to coast, is "good taste." There is the classic simplicity of Thunderbird-inspired design—the clear-cut clean lines that are pure automobile.

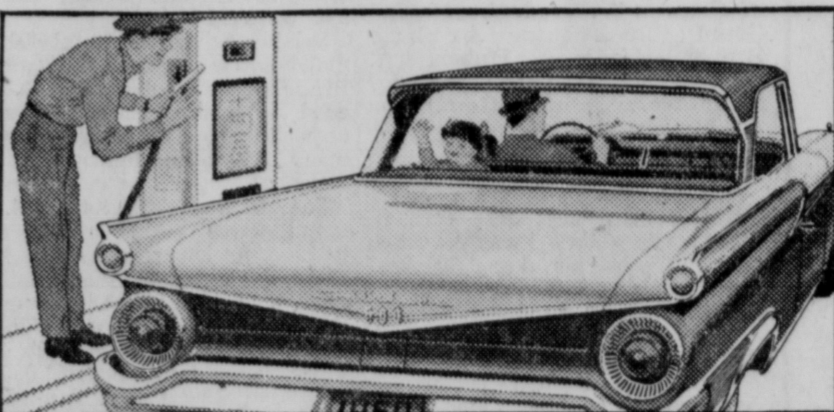

There is a kind of beautiful good sense, too, in the design of the new Ford that goes far beyond just good looks. Ford cars are built for people—to sit in, to drive, to ride in—with comfort. Result? A fresh, elegant new kind of car.

ANYONE CAN FIT IN A FORD: Our cars are built for people—full-size people who want space to get inside easily and stretch out. And all passengers ride in deep-cushion comfort every happy mile.

The car in hottest demand across the land has greater roominess and comfort

Thousands on thousands of customers have already bought the new Ford over all competition for another compelling reason—it's a true six-passenger car. (The only four-passenger car we recommend is the Thunderbird.) All six passengers in a '59 Ford get plenty of every kind of room—from leg and head to elbow and hip. Rear seat passengers don't feel they're riding with their feet in a bucket. And the man in the middle has the same deep, soft cushioning as the other passengers. Cars are supposed to be made to get in and out of. Well, Ford makes it real easy. Compare for yourself. Just get in and out of a Ford with its bigger, wider-opening doors!

YOU'LL BE THANKFUL EVERY TANKFUL if you buy the new Ford, for you'll save up to a dollar a tankful with Ford's new standard engines—both V-8 and Six—that run superbly on regular gasoline.

The No. 1 car in sales saves money on gas, on oil, on maintenance bills

A new Ford will save you up to 5¢ a gallon on gas ... a dollar on every tankful because Ford's standard Six and Thunderbird V-8 engines are engineered to give you powerhouse performance on good old low-cost regular gas.

But that's not all—Ford saves you hard cash on oil, too. Every '59 Ford has a Full-Flow Oil Filter as standard equipment. Result: You can drive a full 4000 miles without an oil change. And Ford has ended the old problem of waxing your car. The new miracle is called Diamond Lustre Finish, an amazing paint that will stay gleaming bright without waxing—ever! This is another Ford First, of the kind your bank account likes.

The most popular American car is priced as much as $102.75 lower

THE FAMOUS FORD LOW PRICES have already made a hit, because only in Fords will you find value and beauty coming together at down-to-earth prices! Check the prices, and you'll see for yourself!

Ford costs you less right down the line than the competition. This is a simple fact, if you'll take the time and trouble to shop and compare. All you have to do is look for yourself, and you'll see that the manufacturer's suggested retail price of a Ford, equipped with radio, heater and automatic transmission, is as much as $102.75 less than the major competition! And, if you want an air-conditioned car, you can save up to $219.85.

All this means that if you want a car with Thunderbird-inspired styling, and that famous Thunderbird V-8 performance (or the most modern Six in the industry)—all this with hard-cash economy—then the car to buy is the '59 Ford.

Chester Plant Workers Return, On Strike 6 Days

CHESTER, N. H. (AP) — Employees at a small cable company, whose president shot to death a union organizer last week, returned to work today.

More than 40 workers at the Chester Cable Co. voted Sunday at a meeting in nearby Florida, N. Y., to return to work after a six-day strike. Their action followed a decision to affiliate with Local 411, Metal Precision Electronics and Production Workers Union, with headquarters in Franklin Square, N. Y.

The results of the meeting were announced by Thomas Murphy of Port Jervis, N. Y., one of the leaders of the striking group.

Plant Shut Down
The plant was not shut down during the strike by the segment of workers, but production had continued on a curtailed basis.

Alfred Dugan, 32, who was attempting to get the plant's 140 employees to join his Interstate Industrial Union, an independent group, was shot and killed Thursday by Malcolm White, 48, company president.

White said he went berserk when Dugan rushed toward him after an argument with his hand in his pocket as though holding a gun.

The cable company is an electrical wire manufacturing division of Miami Copper Co. Prior to the walkout, which began Nov. 10, all employees were represented by Local 1783 of the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Had Police Record
Dugan, coming here from his union's headquarters in Jersey City, had succeeded in fomenting a strike in an attempt to force a new union representation election on the company. The slain organizer had a long record with New Jersey police for bank robbery, armed robbery and mayhem.

Murphy said the National Labor Relations Board is going to hold a meeting this week to determine if a jurisdictional election will be held in the plant.

Will Name Date
announced it would meet last Thursday night to discuss the effect of operation of the new laboratory on its 1959 budget.

Full Effect Undetermined
Full effect of the new operation on the city laboratory will not be determined until the Radel at the meeting of the laboratory is set and other details are reported.

City Treasurer Orrie R. Riehl represented Mayor Edwin F. Radel at the opening of the laboratory house and the hospital group Friday night.

Representing the laboratory were Dr. Herbert Derman, its director, and board members Bernard A. Feeley, the Rev. Dr. Frank L. Gollnick, and Dr. Douw S. Meyers. Representing the hospital were Msgr. Martin J. Drury, P.A.; V.F. and doctors Michael Diacovo, John A. Olivet and Gerald P. Gorman.

Driver Is Linked
Konigsberg when he was arrested were released in $500 bail as material witnesses.

Ready for Return
They were identified as Mrs. Katherine Tartaglia, 29, a widow, and her sister, Mrs. Louise Muro, 26, both of Jersey City.

Police said Konigsberg had used another ticket Saturday night but couldn't be stopped in time. Police posted a double guard afterwards and were ready when he came back.

The ticket he presented was number 13 in the book.

Not So Safe
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — William Jackson, 61, wanted a safe place to practice driving a car so he picked an empty lot.

Jackson accelerated a bit too much. The car crashed through a fence and hit a building across the street.

Police said the building was damaged $1,500. Jackson was charged with reckless driving and having no driver's permit.

Party Chairmen

"You can't legislate this sort of thing. If we push it too fast we might destroy not only the Democratic party but the whole country."

William L. Coleman, Ohio chairman, said "I never saw any problem of this sort which couldn't be solved if everyone concerned was determined to sit down and solve it. . . . I believe the Democratic party is big enough to work it out."

For Moderation
Indiana Chairman Charles E. Skilern said he favors a moderate civil rights plank. He suggested it might outline a program of integration starting in the lowest school grades and gradually working up.

Seaborn P. Collins of New Mexico called for a compromise that would satisfy a majority of the delegates. He added that "I would hate to see a plank that would cause either the north or south to break with the party."

There were some statements that the party must strengthen its position on the issue, no matter what the cost in Southern support.

Oregon's David Eggs said the Democrats must have a stronger civil rights plank than the Republicans.

"We have to go farther to retain the North," he said. "No one likes to have a split or lose anyone but if we have to lose somebody, I'd rather lose the South."

Wisconsin's Patrick J. Lucey doesn't think the South will be the cost in Southern support.

heads in the South must recognize that the election results this month are a mandate for a stronger stand on civil rights."

New York's Michael H. Prendergast called for "a forthright, positive and morally right stand" by the party on the issue.

Rockefeller Will of Minas Gerais, where Kubitschek was governor.

Returning Friday
Rockefeller plans to leave the Brazilian capital late Thursday and arrive in New York Friday afternoon.

A picture of Rockefeller's business and philanthropic operation in South America has become clearer through his vacation here.

His major business activity is based on milk and food—twelve supermarkets, U. S. style and three milk pasteurization plants—in this country known for its vast oil assets.

The plants and supermarkets were built by Rockefeller in 1947 through the International Basic Economy Corp., which he organized. He retains a 51 per cent interest, with Venezuelans holding the balance of the stock.

To Help Living
The philanthropic activities are conducted through the American International Assn. for Economic and Social Development and are guided by a philosophy of "I'll help you do it yourself."

The association was founded by the Rockefeller brothers in 1946 to promote "self development and better standards of living."

This consists largely of agricultural extension activities, both in farm operations and home management, in cooperation with the Venezuelan government. The association contributes $100,000 annually for technical and other assistance.

Rockefeller's interests in Brazil also are carried on by the IBEC and the association.

Age, Youth Join In Opening TB Seals Campaign

Many residents of Kingston and Ulster County saw youth and old age work together Friday night to assist in the opening of the campaign to help fight tuberculosis and build health in Ulster County. The ceremony marked the opening of the 1958 Christmas Seals sale.

Flanked by a "blackboard" erected on the court house lawn for the campaign, the first three sheets of Christmas Seals were sold by two little children to a 100-year-old resident. The "blackboard" was built by the Future Farmers of America, under the direction of Raphael Klein, instructor at Kingston High School. The two children were Peter Nicholas Fowler, grandson of Judge Joseph M. Fowler, elected as first president of the Ulster County TB and Health Association about 50 years ago when the organization was formed, and Fabian LeVan Russell, son of Robert Russell, chairman of the 1958 Christmas Seals sale and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Fabian Russell, who have represented Saugerties on the board of directors of the TB Association at times during the past years.

Ezra Griffin, 100-year-old resident of Ulster County and father of Mrs. Beatty, wife of the well known milk dealer and Farm Bureau member, purchased the first three sheets of 1958 Christmas Seals. Girl Scouts of Troop 98 sang Christmas carols under the leadership of Mrs. John Walker. Mrs. Geraldine Nathan, well known soloist, and Kingston school nurse-teacher, accompanied by Mrs. Clementine Nessel, Woodstock accordionist and music teacher, sang the official Christmas Seals song — "If I Can Help Somebody."

Robert S. Russell, chairman of the 1958 campaign, acted as master of ceremonies. Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr., president of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, spoke to the assembly. He thanked the hundreds of volunteers who help the association with the program, as well as assisting in the preparation of the Christmas Seals. He said "196 persons served 1099 hours to help get the 1958 Christmas Seals out."

Doctor Holcomb spoke of the many phases of the program of the TB Association and asked that the thousands of people in Ulster County participating, continue their support so as to make the 1958 Christmas Seal sale the most successful in history.

case the Geneva talks break down. He denied a Russian charge that the United States is stalling to gain time to prepare for another series of tests.

The United States and Britain have suspended their tests since Oct. 31, while the talks are on, and urged the Soviet Union to do likewise. But detection apparatus showed the Soviets set off two shots on Nov. 1 and Nov. 3.

The technical conference on prevention of surprise attack is just as tightly deadlocked.

The Soviet Union, with the backing of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Albania, has sought to transform this 10-nation technical conference into a political forum for airing a wide range of cold war and disarmament issues.

The representatives of the 10 countries were to meet again today without even an order of business and with little immediate prospect of agreeing on one.

Kiernan Is Held For Grand Jury
Joseph Kiernan, 42, of 37 Broadway, who was brought back here from Painesville, Ohio, Saturday to face an abandonment charge, waived examination today before City Judge Aaron E. Klein, and was held to await grand jury action.

Kiernan was arrested on a warrant executed by Undersheriff Clayton W. Vredenburg and County Investigator Arthur Brown. Attorney Hubert A. Richter appeared for the defendant and John E. Gotelli for the district attorney's office.

Cellar Stairway, Floor Timbers Damaged by Fire

A fire which started in a carton of glasses packed in paper excelsior damaged a section of a cellar stairway, floor timbers and partitions in a six-family, two-story, frame house at 189 Elmendorf Street this morning.

Units from Central and Wiltwyck stations and the Wicks Company answered a call at 9:25 a. m. The blaze, which spread dense smoke in the house, was checked with a pump stream. Deputy Fire Chief Harold A. Sanford was in charge.

The carton, in which the fire started, had been stored in the cellar. The building is owned by Ethel Sleight of Yarmouth Street, Town of Ulster.

A call at 8:14 p. m., Saturday was for a fire in the framework of the grill at 11 Main Street. Central and Wiltwyck units responded. The fire was checked with chemicals and no damage was reported beyond the framework of the grill.

Extended Forecast On State Weather

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced toward further record highs early this afternoon in heavy trading. Key stocks gained fractions to a point or more.

The market has risen to record peaks in four of the past five sessions. Brokers said considerable selling pressure was apparent but the market coped with it nicely.

Trading ran at a pace of about a million shares an hour. Some early gains were sliced and the over-all market rise was moderate.

Motors, coppers, rubbers, utilities, rails and oils were well on the upside. Steels became mixed after an early rise. Aircrafts, electronics, chemicals and drugs were mixed.

By SOPHIE MILLER

I have a pre-Christmas number of the Kingston Argus, dated December 14, 1887. There is an advertisement for a soap still on the market showing an old-fashioned Santa Claus near an old-fashioned fireplace.

Everything is in keeping with the late 1880's. Santa is wearing a fur suit and hat. A poem goes with it showing what toys were popular then. It reads in part: "I've traveled through the sleet and snow, Across the country high and low, To fill the stockings small and great, That here in line my coming wait. In creeping baby's hose, The India rubber goes; A handsome doll, with staring eyes, Will much the little miss surprise. And what will be more delight the boys, Than musket, drum or bugle toys? And now, before I climb the flue etc."

It is also interesting to see what was taught in the Kingston Academy in its 114th year of existence at the time. There is an advertisement which states that the winter term begins Monday, Dec. 5, 1887. This is the way the item read in part: "An English and Classical School for both sexes. Prepares thoroughly for college, business and teaching. It has representatives in many of the Eastern Colleges as well as in this state who are taking high rank. Science and Modern Languages Specialties, Commercial Arithmetic and Business forms carefully taught. Board reasonable, tuition moderate. "It is unfortunate Kingston Academy did not grow into a college. If it was established 114 years ago in 1887 it was in existence in 1773. During that time so much could have been done to establish a college or university here. Only pictures remain of the building today and Academy Green.

In those days Pitt's Bazaar at 39 North Front Street was the big store. They had an advertisement in which they announce "Santa Claus has arrived at Pitt's Bazaar" and they go on to list the gifts from five cents to $10 for father, mother, sister, brother, son and daughter, husband, wife, sweetheart, cousin, uncle, aunt, mother-in-law, father-in-law, niece, man servant, maid servant, neighbor, friend, or any one else."

Some of the gifts they list are a "splendid line of hanging and library lamps, brackets and chandeliers at bargain prices." Those are all antiques today.

They write about photo frames and easels in velvet, ebony, gilt, walnut and gold. They had a great variety of lunch and hand baskets, satchels and traveling bags. They also had a large assortment of bird cages, cheap. In their housekeeping department they had copper bottom tea kettles for 35 cents; good coal hod, 25 cents; 14 quart tin wash boilers 35 cents. They had special reduced prices for Sunday schools and churches. They also notified the public that "street cars now run to within a few feet from our door. Look for our big sign, "Pitt's Bazaar."

Christmas was in all the advertisements. Geo. C. Wolven's Furniture Store at 8 Wall Street and 7 Fair Street has a big framed advertisement. In city paragraphs one item reads: "People in search of presents for Christmas and New Years should visit the store of James O. Merritt, of this city. Their show windows are one of the sights of the city."

One thing they had in those days we do not have today. They had horses and sleighbells. I remember after a heavy snow, years ago we used to run out and see the first sleighbell horse go by. That is a sound on crunchy snow that makes the coming of winter even pleasant.

The black widow spider gets her name from a nervous habit of sometimes eating her spouse.

Republican Club Appoints Directors; Lists 7-Point Program, Revitalized Setup

A new and revitalized Woodstock township Republican club is predicted as a result of action taken by 75 enrolled members of the party at a highly enthusiastic reorganization meeting Friday night at Bears-ville Lodge hall.

Abram F. Molyneux, Republican committeeman from Woodstock, was temporary chairman of the meeting which designated a large executive committee to coordinate the new program and also adopted a hard hitting seven-point agenda designed to make the club an influential voice in township politics.

The seven-point program follows:

1. To create a link between club members and Republican committeemen and elected officials.
2. Promote the welfare of Republican candidates on all levels.
3. A committee to welcome newcomers to Woodstock, this committee to be complemented by a welcome wagon committee.
4. Establishment of a public relations bureau to bring the Republican message to the public.
5. Social activities.
6. Purchase of a mimeograph machine and typewriter.
7. Making the club a sounding board for community questions and problems.

Appoint Directors

Acting on the authority vested in him as temporary chairman, Molyneux named the following members of the Executive Committee:

Woodstock Village — Robert Hastie, William West, Benjamin Webster, Ruth Kinns, Louise Wolven, Patricia Hastie.

Bearsville — Joseph F. Marr and Mrs. Joan Kleissig.

Wittenberg — Maurice Goldberg, Edgar Baker, Frances Shultis.

Attorney Molyneux further complemented his remarks that while the club didn't necessarily reflect the thinking of all enrolled voters of the community, it should be a powerful force in the community. He also felt the club should be organized and operate independently of the town committeemen and elected Republican officials, but urged the strongest possible liaison between the two.

Warren Huffy, a real estate dealer, said it was his feeling the main purpose of the club was to "turn every possible voter into a Republican." He urged a constant check on all newcomers from such sources as school enrollment, tax rolls, real estate transactions, etc. These people should be approached and encouraged to join the Republican club.

Mrs. Joseph Marr endorsed the hospitality group and welcome wagon committee as a worthy proposal, but she strongly urged social activities for the women members who, she said "will not come out meeting after meeting just to hear speeches."

Need for Contacts

Pointing out that the Republicans had lost two town elections in the past year, William West Jr., urged the strongest possible activity on the township level.

"We must get people out and interested in Republican candidates and policies," he said. "We have 1300 enrolled Republicans in the township, yet we keep losing local elections," he added. "There's something wrong somewhere. We must get registered Republicans to vote Republican, we need new faces."

Gottlob Wagner of Zena said the recent election in the township proved that a well organized minority can often defeat a disorganized majority. Walter Balk and Paul Hamilton also made recommendations for strengthening the purposes of the club.

Zena — James Hamlin, Mrs. James Hamlin, Gottlob Wagner, Supervisor Joseph (Buzzy) Fitzsimmons and Molyneux were named a committee to select two members to represent each of the districts of Willow, Lake Hill and Shady on the executive committee.

Thirty new members were signed at the meeting boosting the total to 101. Each of the members present was asked to bring a new member to the next meeting on Dec. 12.

Albert Cashdollar, town superintendent of highways, will review the history of the township, at the next meeting. Other items on the agenda will be a report of the executive committee and nominating committee.

tee and nominating committee.

Club Needs Purpose

Molyneux pointed out in his opening remarks that the Republican club had not functioned since the death of Frank W. Antenucci. He said the club should be re-organized with purpose and direction and should attract interest among the younger people in the township. Several persons took part in a lively floor debate on the purposes and aims of the club and how it could best be made a vital factor in Woodstock politics.

Maurice Goldberg, a Lake Hill attorney, said he thought the club could furnish important support for Republican candidates. He said the club should also make its weight felt at caucuses.

James Hamlin of Zena said he felt the club should serve as a sounding board on town, county, state and national issues. He said the accomplishments of the Republican party should be "sold" to the public and urged the club to use its influence in selecting the best qualified candidates for office.

Glenford Drill Expert Attends National Parley

James Stoutenburgh, well known Glenford well drilling contractor, has returned from Washington where he was among 1500 delegates representing the nation's 11,000 well drilling contractors at the annual convention and exposition of the National Water Well Association.

Stoutenburgh said that residents of Washington were startled to see huge well drilling rigs towering over the Sheraton-Park Hotel. More than 80 manufacturers displayed industry equipment at the convention.

The Glenford contractor said that the water well industry has kept pace with the movement of the national population and is helping the American family to maintain and improve its living standards by supplying the additional quantity of pure water needed for modern living.

A Huge Industry

"Few people realize that developing adequate sources of pure, safe ground water is a billion dollar industry," said Stoutenburgh. "Yet the newest techniques were discussed at the NWAA convention that will bring the public the best water supply at the lowest possible cost."

The convention also considered the best methods of assisting the public in hiring the services of the established competent well drilling contractor who makes use of the latest geological data and is properly equipped.

"This continuing improvement in the standard of living in our country demands more ground wells to supply the added needs of existing city water systems, new communities and modernized farm dwellings and to service the continuing trend toward suburban living," stated Stoutenburgh.

Martin Leskow, Noted Oboist, Set For Woodstock Concert

The renowned oboist, Martin Leskow, will appear as special guest artist with the Woodstock Quartet in the first concert of the Woodstock Festival's Winter Series of Sunday Afternoon events, it was announced this week by the Festival Committee.

The opening concert is scheduled for November 30 at 3:30 p. m. at the Guild Gallery in Woodstock village.

Martin Leskow, of Hopewell Junction, N. Y., attended the Juilliard School from 1934 to 1937, then for the next ten years was first oboist with the Metropolitan Opera orchestra. Since 1948 he has played with the Firestone Orchestra and the Symphony of the Air, as well as appearing on numerous other television and radio programs.

The Woodstock Quartet is composed of Alice Smiley, violin; Renee Weiss, violin; Frank Mele, viola, and Hans Cohn, cello. The popular string ensemble will open and close the series of eight scheduled events in the Winter Series, which includes concerts, lectures and film programs of exceptional interest.

The concert November 30 will feature selections from Bach, Prokofiev and Beethoven.

MARTIN LESKOW

Subscription blocks of tickets for the entire series are now available. They may be reserved by writing to the Woodstock Festival Committee, Inc., Box 485, Woodstock; or, if any will be still available, may be bought at the box office at the first concert November 30.

Attempts Tappan Zee Bridge Jump Sunday

TARRYTOWN, N. Y. (AP)—A would-be jumper from the Tappan Zee Bridge is in Grasslands Hospital today for observation. He is James Nickerson, 31, who resides at a YMCA here.

Nickerson stood on the superstructure of the bridge Sunday and threatened to leap 90 feet into the Hudson River. Police grabbed him as he perched on a girder outside the bridge guard rail about a half mile from shore.

Nickerson's mother, Mrs. George W. Sparks, lives in Spencer, N. Y.

Supervisors, CC Groups to Meet On College Plan

The Community College Committee of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors and representatives of the Citizen's Advisory Committee will meet with Dr. Lawrence L. Jarvie in Albany on Thursday of this week.

At this conference the next step to further the establishment of a Community College in Ulster County will be considered. Dr. Jarvie is the executive dean of the State University of New York.

The results of a recent survey taken among high school juniors and seniors in Ulster County, will be presented to Dr. Jarvie. This survey was made to help determine the potential number of students, should a Community College be established in Ulster County. A total of 942 completed survey forms were returned and tabulated. The results will be released following the Albany conference.

In announcing the Thursday conference, Fred H. DuBois, chairman of the Supervisor's Community College Committee, stated that any suggestions as to potential location or facilities for such a college would be welcome. "The next step is likely to be finding a suitable building in which to house a Community College, perhaps on a temporary basis," DuBois said.

Cancer Society In State Issues Annual Report

More than 800,000 answers are at hand today to the question of "Is cancer curable?" according to the American Cancer Society's New York State Division Annual Report just issued from Rochester.

These are men, women and children, according to Alan Stevenson, executive director for the division, whose cancer a generation ago would have been nearly 100 per cent fatal, and more lives are being saved every day.

Contributions Increase

Recently completed was the state division's biggest year with marked increases in contributions, education and service activities and persons reached with life-saving cancer services. An all-time high of $1,285,000 was received from contributors in the State of New York showing the third highest rate of increase in the country over the previous year.

Special note was made of an increase in memorial giving to the Society. Expenditures in the State, however, were $31,000 above available funds, with the Society facing a greatly increased share in national research.

A single phase of education, the Breast Self-Examination Program, reached nearly 600,000 women in the State, according to Mrs. Priscilla R. Marble, the Society's Director of Volunteers. Open showings of a special film were arranged in theaters around the State. The Society plans a similar educational attack during the coming year upon uterine cancer.

These programs have been shown to be dependable means of finding very early, highly curable stages of cancer in apparently healthy women and may become the means of wiping out deaths from these causes.

The report shows sizable increases in all the Society's activities here including public education, professional education, research and service to cancer patients. Listed are 3,299 individual public meetings at which cancer information was presented. In addition to year round informational contacts with physicians, the Society provided direct Fellowships to 44 physicians and medical students for special studies in cancer diagnosis and treatment.

Dressings Donated

Nearly two and a quarter million handmade cancer dressings were provided free to hundreds of cancer patients during the year. These, and the educational programs above were the direct result of volunteer services of over 75,000 volunteers extending through nearly every city, town and hamlet in the State.

Notable in the services supported by the Society was an increased support of cytology (cell examination) services and a changing emphasis from detection centers to periodic health examinations in doctors' offices. Also supported are a variety of locally-sponsored tumor clinics, cancer case registries, visiting nurse services and other activities to assist in more successful diagnosis and treatment of cancer.

In preparation for the higher quotas for increased financing, the Society found it necessary to announce its withdrawal from all federated fund-raising campaigns throughout the State and to attack the problem with a vigorous single-purpose campaign intended to reach the objective of cancer control within the shortest possible time.

Copies of the report will be freely available to all interested persons through the local Friendly Red Door, 400 Broadway, or by writing to the American Cancer Society, Rochester.

Schools to Receive Radiological Kits

State Civil Defense Commission today announced an additional 732 public, private and parochial high schools throughout the state will receive radiological detection kits in the next few weeks.

The kits, made available without charge by the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, will be used in the science departments of the schools to instruct high school seniors in the use of radiation detection and measuring instruments, as well as to acquaint them with the elements of radiological defense.

Each kit contains a Geiger counter, radiological survey meters, dosimeters and a device for testing radioactive contamination of food and water. A manual of instruction in the use of the instruments which detect and measure degrees of radiation, together with a handbook for science teachers accompanies each kit.

In addition to the 732 schools in New York State, designated to receive the radiological defense instruction sets in the present issue, 486 selected New York State high schools received kits in the initial distribution last August.

The equipment is being furnished by the OCDM in a nationwide program to train an increasing number of persons in every community in the country in the use of these instruments for detecting and measuring radioactivity in the event of an outbreak of nuclear warfare, or in emergencies resulting from accidents involving peace-time uses of nuclear energy.

Nowadays there is so much dissemination of popular medical knowledge that we have all become brand-conscious. When we tell the doctor what disease we want, we're not going to let him sell us on some just-as-good substitute.

A county attorney was trying to convict a man accused of fish gassing, spearing fish through holes in the ice. One of his witnesses was a lanky Hoosier, no friend of the law, whose farm bordered the river where the gassing was alleged to have taken place. Attorney — Did these holes in the ice look fresh to you? Hoosier — I dunno. I couldn't tell whether they were this year's holes or last year's.

"It can be done" is good, but "it's done" is better. The highest reward for a man's toil is not what he gets for it, but what he becomes by it.

And so I was surprised to find
That sometimes he was right.
To him who didn't think my way
What patience I have shown!
How oft have I concealed dismay

Imagine my surprise to see
At last, the truth so grim —
That fellow thinks the same of me
As I have thought of him!

TV, Radio Union To Extend Strike Date Temporarily

NEW YORK (AP) — Live performances on four major television and radio networks go on as scheduled today and Tuesday under the terms of a temporary agreement in the dispute between the networks and a performers' union.

The American Federation of Television and Radio Artists agreed Sunday to extend a strike deadline 72 hours past Saturday midnight and to extend the old contract, which expired then, for the same period.

The union, representing 12,000 radio and TV performers, is involved in contract negotiations with the American Broadcasting Co., Mutual Broadcasting System, Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Co.

The union wants wage increases and other concessions. The most controversial item is its demand for a rate schedule for union members whose performances are reproduced on the new video tape. The schedule would set up a sliding scale of payments for each time the tape is televised.

Present wage scales have not been made public.

The union claims a strike will knock out 90 per cent of the live TV and radio network shows. The networks said they have a backlog of taped and recorded shows that would enable them to present many of the most popular shows through at least the first week of a strike.

MANNED SPACE FLIGHT DRAWING NEARER . . .

FIVE-MAN SPACE STATION—Development of million-pound-thrust rocket engines is bringing manned space flight—in vehicles such as this five-man space station—nearer to reality. Seven feet in diameter and 35 feet long, this satellite and its shielding might weigh as much as 65,000 pounds and would require a launching rocket developing about six million pounds of thrust. Orbiting at 22,300 miles altitude, the satellite could be used for astronomy, solar and ionosphere studies, a communications relay station or a weather-forecasting station. Data from Rocketdyne Division of North American Aviation.

QUARTER-MILLION-TON—Space stations such as this one weighing 250,000 pounds may become a practicality with the development of million-pound-thrust chemical rockets and nuclear rocket engines. To carry a crew of 50 men, the spherical space station would require 15 million pounds of thrust to get into orbit. The station would be about 60 feet in diameter, orbiting at an altitude of 22,300 miles. Data from Rocketdyne Division of North American Aviation.

Buffalo Lensman, 85, Dies; Active in Newspaper Work

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Wilbur H. Porterfield, 85, one of the oldest active newspaper photographers in the nation, died Sunday of a heart ailment.

The day before he died he spent several hours at his desk and in the darkroom at the Buffalo Courier-Express.

In the 37 years he worked for the newspaper, Porterfield used the same camera, an old-style Graflex with bellows top and a ground-glass view finder.

He always said the camera wasn't as important as the man behind it.

He was best known for his landscapes and scenic photographs, and his work was on exhibit frequently in Western New York.

He was born in Oil Bug City, a boom town near Butler, Pa., that disappeared after the oil rush ended. He was married twice, but outlived both wives. He had no children.

The funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Killed in Crash

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Adam Kelly, about 60, of Littleton, N. C., was killed today when an automobile crashed into a tree. Eight others were injured.

Police said Kelly was believed to have been the driver. They said the car went out of control at an intersection.

None of the others in the car, all from Buffalo, was in critical condition.

Abandoned Car Believed Used by Greene Escapee

A car stolen from the driveway of John Dul, New Street, Catskill, and believed to be the escape car in which Eddie Lee Smith made a get-away after escaping Catskill jail, has been found abandoned in the Bronx.

Smith, who has served time for assault and robbery, was being held in Greene County jail for burglary when he shoved aside a jailer and a trusty who had brought him a tray of food. He has since been indicted by a Greene County grand jury for escape.

State police have tabbed Smith as an "escape artist" and report he is wanted in at least seven other northern states on various charges, chiefly burglary. Police say he is "dangerous" and may now be armed.

UAW, Chrysler Agree on Pacts

DETROIT (AP) — The picket lines came down and Chrysler Corp. today swung back into the production of 1959 model cars.

Chrysler and the United Auto Workers union came to terms on new contracts for white collar workers Sunday night.

Although only 8,000 of Chrysler's 75,000 UAW members were on strike, picket lines kept production and maintenance workers away from their jobs, virtually closing down Chrysler's car-making operations for almost a week.

Going into the weekend, 61,000 workers were idle and 32 plants were closed.

Facilities in Detroit
Most of Chrysler's car-making facilities are in Detroit where 50,000 of the workers are employed.

Chrysler said negotiations on the white collar contracts dragged past the others because the union's demands were higher. The UAW claimed greater inequities existed among these workers and further negotiations were necessary.

Chrysler Vice President John D. Leary said the new agreement would provide an increase of $2.53 a week, 3 per cent or whatever is larger, in salaries for the workers, would incorporate part of their cost of living benefits into their base salary, and would institute a new severance pay plan.

Under the old contract, the salaries of the white collar workers ranged from $319 a month for messenger boys to $903 a month for project design leaders.

Probe Radium Needle Handling Effects

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Johnny Pierce, 19, remained in a hospital today while doctors tried to determine what effect handling a radium needle will have on him.

Doctors feared he may suffer severe aftereffects.

Pierce, an amateur scientist, told a doctor last week he had been exposed to radiation. He admitted taking a radium needle from a hospital where he worked as a student X-ray technician.

While the radium may have injured Pierce, officials said he could not have spread that type of radioactivity.

Treasures That Mock

By FRANK TRIPP

People go through life accumulating things which become problems in their old age. Many a house is a veritable museum of treasures that mock those who cherish them.

Heirlooms age into worse than nuisances, particularly the bulky ones. Disposing of them, which some prize as a gift, some prize as a family possession of generations ago.

We treasure mementoes of days both joyous and sad, of parents, childhood, places, people and events; of triumphs, achievements, tragedies—a graveyard of memories. They as often rouse tears as laughter. All who knew their significance die; they become doleful reminders on walls and shelves and white elephants about the house. Yet we save them, then age to wonder why.

WHAT TO DO with them? Burden our children with them? Try it. Throw them away, burn them? Try that, and feel the guilt that parting with each brings when you destroy a treasure that you thought would be prized and passed along for generations.

It is a mistake to believe that we can transmit to others, even to our children, the sentiment or memories that surround the outmoded things we save.

Genuine antiques or truly historical items pose no problem. But unwanted are the cluttering intimate hoardings (other than money) out of a family's past; mother's, father's, grandparents'; our own treasures that we naively dream will become heirlooms of our creation, prized eternally by posterity.

ONCE friends dropped in on an evening to relive an event that some cherished relic typifies. Bill would chuckle, "That's priceless; how did you happen to save it?"—and you'd be proud.

But there's no one left who understands your treasures, no one left to appreciate them with you; just you and your silent reminders that you're a has-been.

They are symbols of senility, your family and others think, when you reminisce in boring detail. So you haven't enjoyed them for years; they have become depressing.

DOOMED FROM the oncoming American scene will be rambling family homesteads out of the present era. Nobody builds them anymore. Homes to pass from generation to generation; big houses to rear big families; the homesteads whence came heirlooms and the custom of preserving them.

In these spacious homes there was room for them. They originated there and there they stayed from era to era. Heirs once stayed with them to inhabit the family homestead.

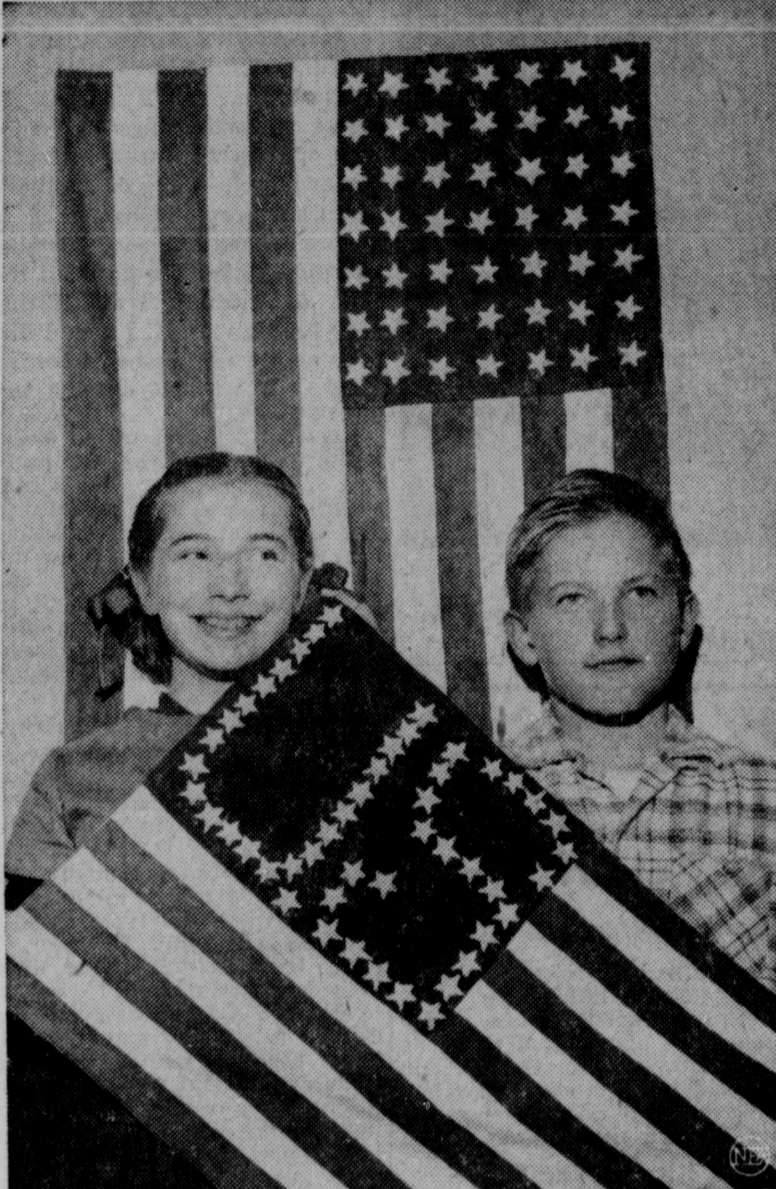

Some such survive out of the past, but few will be added. Most will be razed to rid legacies of their burden, or rebuilt into apartments, lodging houses, even night clubs.

The children who might preserve them cannot afford their maintenance. Today youth roams afar to follow careers or crowds into apartments and cottages that wouldn't hold the contents of a single room of the family homestead. Offspring cannot accept their old homes as a gift, at today's living costs and taxes.

THE DAY of the Old Homestead is gone. And with it, a place—or a reason—to preserve heirlooms and hoard mementoes of bygone days and long-dead people.

If you would spare yourself the hurt that certainly comes from discovering that you're an out-dated, sentimental old fool, save nothing that you can't hide in a suitcase and carry with you to the end.

For nobody wants your treasures—no one but you.

Michael Feighan will take the banners to Washington as possible models for the next official flag.

Drive-In Service

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP) —John Gallegos didn't wait to turn in a fire alarm. He took his fire with him to the station. He drove right into the open main door with part of his car's front seat afire. The blaze was doused promptly and Gallegos told firemen he found the seat smoldering when he returned to his downtown parking place.

Rocky, Nixon Are Leading for 1960 Candidacy: Wiley

By RICHARD P. POWERS
Associated Press Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nixon and Gov. — elect Nelson Rockefeller of New York at the present time are the leading possibilities for the 1960 GOP presidential nomination in the view of Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.).

Wiley sharply disagreed with Harold E. Stassen, who has attempted to read Nixon out of a leading role. Stassen said the Republicans could win the presidency in 1960 with any of four men, but Nixon was not on the list. "That would be ridiculous, leaving Mr. Nixon off the list," Wiley said.

Stassen Choices

Stassen's four included Rockefeller, Secretary of the Treasury, Secretary of the Interior, and Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Wiley said he believes Nixon and Rockefeller are the men at this time who have the best chance to get the part nomination in 1960, but he did not say which he preferred.

Wiley said the Republican Party is far from through even though Democrats scored heavily in the recent general election.

"I expect," he said, "the good minds in the Republican Party will recognize that the situation calls for diagnosis and stringent efforts will be needed to rehabilitate the organization and to re-create confidence in the average voter. When confidence is re-created, the party will have its share of success."

Wiley is the senior Republican member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Today's child has one smaller worry than his grandfather did—he is less likely to become orphan. One of every four children born at the turn of the century faced the prospect of becoming an orphan before the age of 18. Now the figure is one out of seven.

Don't fret too much if your kid is born with a strawberry birthmark. It happens to about 1 of every 10 children. Often they disappear before school age without treatment of any kind.

at least twice a year" hasn't quite caught on. A study by the Public Health Service showed only 36 per cent of the Americans visited a dentist last year. And 42 per cent hadn't done so in the last three years.

Unfurrowed Rockies

Despite the march of science in an ever more crowded world, only nine per cent of the earth's land is under cultivation. No one yet has found a way to plow the Rocky Mountains.

Actor Walter Slezak says his three children are all at the perfect age, "too old to cry at night, and too young to borrow the family car."

It was Oliver Wendell Holmes who observed: "A man should share the passion of his times or else consider himself not to have lived."

Legion Auxiliary Plans to Solicit Gifts for Veterans

American Legion Auxiliary Unit of Post No. 150 plans gift shop for veterans. The annual Christmas Gift Shop for all hospitalized veterans will be held at the Albany Veterans Hospital on December 9 by Auxiliary Units of the 3rd American Legion District.

Auxiliary members from Post 150 are now gathering gifts for these veterans and solicit the help of any groups or individuals who care to donate. Each veteran chooses gifts for his entire family at no cost to him. The gifts are wrapped and sent to his home so that his loved ones will receive a little something from him at Christmas time.

Gifts should be new and useful. Cosmetics, stationery, food and candy are not acceptable. Anyone caring to donate are requested to leave the gifts at the Legion Building or to contact Mrs. June Murphy by November 19.

British Project Assists Oldsters and Relatives

BY MARIE DAERR

To hundreds of British older people who have arthritis, heart trouble and other chronic ailments, "Six weeks in and six weeks out" has become a magic phrase.

To many of the daughters and daughters-in-law who cared for these older people, day in and day out, "six weeks" has meant the difference between living and just existing.

"Six weeks in and six weeks out" is the rule at London's Langthorne Hospital, a hospital for older people which has been watched with great interest by not only the rest of England, but by America, too.

According to Dr. John DeLargy, who organized the project in the spring of 1956, "six weeks in and six weeks out" is designed to help older people with chronic illness—and to give relief to their families as well.

"Grandma's stroke or crippling arthritis can be as hard on other members of the family as on Grandma herself," Dr. DeLargy explained. "We keep Grandma six weeks."

"While she is with us, she learns some easy ways of taking care of herself and of doing simple household tasks."

"Meanwhile, at home, daughter or daughter-in-law is getting a chance for some rest and a change. Maybe she can go off on a holiday."

"After six weeks, Grandma goes home. In another six weeks, she returns to us. She looks forward, to entering the hospital, where she sees the same patients she saw before—now her friends."

"And she looks forward to going home and being with her family once more."

Dr. DeLargy explained that often an overcautious family is afraid to let the older person

DISCOURAGING A CONSTANT BORROWER

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how I can politely refuse to lend things to neighbors of ours who are constantly borrowing one thing or another? I can see people being forced to borrow something occasionally, but these neighbors do it all the time and frankly, I am getting very fed up with it. I would like your advice as to what I can do about this without causing unpleasantness.

Answer: I know of no satisfactory way of solving the problem of the neighbor who is constantly borrowing something. Try to discourage her by telling her that you are about to use yourself whatever it is she wishes to borrow, or if it is something like an egg, be sorry that you have had to use the last one for your husband's breakfast.

Typing a Letter of Sympathy.

Dear Mrs. Post: A short while ago a friend's husband passed away in a distant city. I wrote her a letter of sympathy. Since my handwriting is very poor I typed the letter. I thought this was perfectly proper in the present day when the typewriter is used so generally. However, I have been criticized for this. Was it a social error?

Answer: A letter of sympathy can be very short and it would have been better if you had taken pains and tried to write a few words clearly in your own handwriting. If, on the other hand, you have always typed your letters to this friend, you were not wrong in typing this one too.

Adopting a Baby

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I are planning to adopt a baby. We expect to get the baby in about ten days. However, it will not be legally ours for about six months. Should we send out announcements when the baby comes to stay with us, or should we wait until it is legally ours before sending announcements?

Answer: If I were you I would wait.

Wedding details for the engagement to the ceremony are listed in Mrs. Post's booklet No. 501, "The Etiquette of Weddings." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

Husbands: Wives Need Their Men as Good Listeners

Memo to men: Could your wife have written this letter?

"Please tell me what to do about a husband who comes home every night with the same line—what a busy day he's had and how tired he is."

"I always listen sympathetically. But when I start to tell him about my day or what I've done he walks over and starts to read the mail or switches on the TV set, without even pretending to listen to what I have to say."

"It's true, my days aren't too exciting; but I do sometimes have news I think he ought to be interested in. And, anyway, I feel he ought to listen when I talk, just out of common courtesy."

"If we are driving in the car and I start to tell him something that I think is worth talking about, he interrupts to talk about the mileage, or turns the car radio up full blast."

"This may sound like a small complaint. But it really hurts to be made to feel so stupid and unimportant."

"Don't tell me to try not talking for an evening. If I do that he accuses me of being mad. What's the matter with my husband, anyhow?"

It sounds as though you are married to a man who thinks nothing of a woman has to say is important enough to bother listening to.

You may not be able to change his attitude. But here is one thing you might try. Next time you have something to tell him that you consider important preface it with:

"Now sit down and listen to me for five minutes. I have something to tell you and I don't want to compete with the evening paper, the mail, or TV."

"For just a few minutes I'd like to have your whole attention."

Maybe you'll get it that way. And maybe you'll wake him up to the fact that you are tired of being a woman without an audience.

Good luck to you. It may help if your husband just happens to read this column. It might even help some other husbands who have fallen into the same rude habit of never listening to anything their wives say.

Ike to Spend Holiday 10 Days in Augusta

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower hopes to get away to Augusta, Ga., Thursday or Friday for about 10 days of golf mixed with work.

The White House, in announcing this today, noted that the prospective trip means the President and Mrs. Eisenhower will spend Thanksgiving Day at one of their favorite retreats, the Augusta National Golf Club.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said Eisenhower probably will remain in Augusta through next weekend. Hagerty had no definite date for the President's return to Washington.

Washington Avenue Woman Is Injured

Edith Long, 22, of 109 Washington Avenue, was treated at Kingston Hospital Saturday morning for minor injuries received in a one-car mishap on Route 32A about 1,000 feet west of Route 32.

Trooper Richard Ryan of the Kingston state police said she was a passenger in a 1955 sedan operated by Arling Kalleberg, 27, of Mt. Marion, who was proceeding west on Route 32 at the time. The car failed to make a sharp left turn on the winding highway. Time of the mishap was 2:30 a. m.

Grange Contends Lower Prices Not Market Stimulus

By OVID MARTIN

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) —The National Grange rejected today a contention of Eisenhower administration farm officials that lower farm prices would expand markets sufficiently to assure producers good incomes.

Farm prosperity will require, it said, limitations on production and marketing managed not by the government but by organized producers under government supervision.

This Grange position was stated by the Agriculture Committee of the farm organization's national convention.

Benson Opinion

Secretary of Agriculture Benson has contended—as he did in a talk before the Grange meeting last week—that expansion of markets through competitive prices would do much to take the production of an uncontrolled agriculture and assure farm well being.

The Grange committee countered with this statement: "Those who contend that lower prices will result in sufficient market expansion to maintain or increase incomes of producers do so in the face of all past experience and accepted economic laws to the contrary."

The committee said that managed marketing of farm products, with the help of the government, is essential to the economic survival of agriculture in the years ahead.

"We hold that managed marketing to enhance producer income is greatly to be preferred either to rigid government controls or unrestrained free market competition that leads to chaotic markets and ruinously low prices."

Shokan

SHOKAN — Addison Crowell, Wallkill lumber dealer and collector of Civil War books and curios, was a caller in the hub of the reservoir country Thursday.

Robert Adsit is reported to have sold a building lot to Charles T. Roll of St. Remy. The Adsit development, on the south side of the old state road, formerly was included in the George Giles farm of 30 acres.

Isaac Trowbridge, Kingston, was a recent caller in the village center.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Johnson and children, residents of the church hill neighborhood, have moved to North Syracuse where the Johnsons recently bought a home. The couple lived in the Ruckert apartments upon coming to Shokan from upstate three years ago.

Birthdays falling Nov. 20 include that of Virgil Winchell, Port Ewen area resident for many years, who is reported to have moved to West Hurley recently. Virgil, one of the country's best known violinists, is the son of Virgil and Subrania Eckert Winchell who lived at West Shokan.

Claude Beidler, West Olive World War I veteran, is a patient in the Benedictine Hospital. The new dwelling of Paul Burger near the Reformed Church grounds is nearing completion.

Mrs. Lester Leone, former village center woman who now resides near Lake Katrine, called on local friends Saturday. Mrs. Leone reports her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Bobell of Creek Locks, are home again following a visit with relatives in Detroit.

David West, World War I veteran and one time state trooper who now makes his home on Route 28-A, Hurley, was a caller here Friday en route to Wittenberg to visit Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor.

Weekend Mishaps Claim 20 Lives

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Two men shot by hunting companions were among 20 victims of accidental deaths in New York State over the weekend.

Highway accidents took 15 lives.

Melvin Walker, 34, of Johnstown, was killed early Saturday by a bullet discharged from the gun of a fellow hunter who had tripped.

Alden G. Makin, 22, of Malone, was shot Saturday while hunting in Franklin County woods. Police said the rifle of a companion had discharged.

David Crouch, 16, fell 100 feet inside the arch of a bridge over the Genesee River Sunday. Richard S. VanNort, 17, of Holbrook, a star athlete at Sachem High School, was killed when a car in which he was riding struck a cement pillar on Long Island Saturday night.

At Rome, Leo W. Herrman and his wife, Flossie, were found in their wrecked car Sunday. The vehicle had hit a tree. Police said he might have died of a heart attack.

William Dwyer, 62, and his wife, Helen, of The Bronx, were killed Saturday morning in a head-on automobile collision near West Nyack.

These were other fatal accidents between 6 p. m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

New York — Carl Brady, 53, struck by a rapid-transit train Friday night on Staten Island, apparently after falling from a station platform.

New York — Charles Tomlinson, 37, Brooklyn, a fire extinguisher exploded as he was trying to put out a fire Saturday in the paint factory where he was employed.

New York — Louise Fertig, 18, Bethpage, car struck a tree in Queens Saturday night.

Millville — Frederick H. Osnato, 22, New Hyde Park, sports car hit a utility pole early Saturday.

New York — John W. Thompson, 16, Brooklyn, a truck in which he was riding and an automobile, collided early Sunday.

Edmeston — Alfred G. Ryan, 32, Pratt's Hollow, panel truck plunged into a ravine Friday night.

Syracuse — Lawrence Edem, 54, Mattdale, car struck a traffic island and overturned Saturday.

Genesee — Anthony Bonadonna, 18, Mt. Morris, car hit a tree Saturday.

Struck by Car

Campbell — Mrs. Eva Fassett, 31, two-car collision Saturday.

Niagara Falls — Mrs. Elizabeth Coram, 74, struck by a car Saturday night.

Buffalo — Mrs. Adeline Kittinger, 38, of suburban Eden, car hit by a freight train at grade crossing Sunday.

South Dayton — Colin A. MacDonald Sr., 59, Forestville, head-on auto collision Sunday.

Shine Named Sales Director

WILLIAM J. SHINE

C. Schmidt & Sons, Inc., Pennsylvania's largest brewer, announces the appointment of William J. Shine to the newly established position of director of sales and marketing, effective January 1, 1959. Mr. Shine will assume the sales responsibilities now carried by John Gardiner, Jr. This change will enable Mr. Gardiner to devote more time to his duties as a vice president and member of the board of directors of the company.

Mr. Shine, who was formerly director of marketing research for Anheuser-Busch, Inc., is well known in marketing and advertising circles, and brings to Schmidt his years of successful experience in the brewing industry.

In announcing the new appointment, Carl E. von Czoernig, president, pointed out that the move is part of a planned reorganization of the Schmidt sales and marketing activities designed to keep pace with the expanding markets for Schmidt products.

10 Die in Truck, Auto Crash in Texas

SAN AUGUSTINE, Tex. (AP) — A head-on collision of an auto and a pickup truck just north of here killed 10 persons and injured two more early today.

Percy Garner, funeral home operator here, said four of the dead were children and seven were members of the same family.

State Highway Patrolman R. H. Vinyard of Center, Tex., said the family was from Tenaha, Tex., in Shelby County.

Sheriff E. C. Nichols said Maurice McClellan and Charles McClellan, cousins from Center, were in the pickup truck. Vinyard said Charles was driving. Charles was killed and Maurice was taken to a Shreveport, La., hospital in critical condition.

Vinyard said the auto, containing 10 persons, was driven by Ralph Reed of Tenaha.

Nichols said all involved were Negroes.

"The pickup truck was about six feet over the center line. It had just topped a little hill on a straight stretch of road. The car applied its brakes for about 45 feet. The pickup didn't apply its brakes at all," the sheriff said.

Vinyard estimated the speed of each vehicle at about 70 miles an hour.

Urge NATO Peace Satellite by 1960

PARIS (AP) — A committee of legislators proposed today that NATO launch an earth satellite for peaceful outer space research by 1960.

The satellite, which would bear the emblem of the North Atlantic Alliance, is the first point in a proposed program of "peaceful scientific and technical cooperation in upper atmosphere and outer space research, development and exploration."

The program was recommended by the Scientific and Technical Committee of the fourth NATO Parliamentary Conference, which opened a week-long session in Paris.

Would Dismiss Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Federal Trade Commission examiner recommended today dismissal of charges that Oneida Ltd., Sherrill, N. Y., discriminates in granting promotional allowances to purchasers of its silverware.

Examiner Frank Hier's order may be appealed, stayed or reviewed by the commission.

Hier ruled that Oneida's challenged payments were abandoned 10 months before the commission issued its complaint on Aug. 21. He said there is no reason to suspect the firm has resumed such practices.

Bronx Hunter Is Struck by Pellets

A 24-year-old Bronx hunter was treated at Benedictine Hospital for minor injuries suffered Saturday morning when he was struck by shotgun pellets in a wooded section just west of Lawrenceville, town of Rosendale.

Rudolph Evangelista was reportedly struck by pellets in the left biceps and over the left eye.

Kingston state police said the pellets, from an unknown gun, must have come from a considerable distance, since the wounds were superficial.

Evangelista was hunting small game in a party of seven at the time—about 9 a. m.

Dog Saves Man Locked In Refrigerated Truck

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Taffy, 8-year-old canine, would never win a dog show. He has only three legs, is partly blind and something happened to his tail long ago.

He was on the sidewalk Saturday when milkman James A. Kirkpatrick, 59, stopped to make a delivery. Kirkpatrick entered the refrigerated truck and the back door slammed shut, locking him in.

The milkman beat on the door and yelled. Taffy set up a commotion.

Mrs. Lamar Parish, the dog's owner, looked out to see what was bothering him. She walked to the truck and heard Kirkpatrick's calls.

"Lady, I'm sure glad you were home," the driver gasped when he stumbled out.

Child Prodigy? Only So Many Can Become a Van Cliburn

She's Viennese—the widow of a distinguished portrait painter. Last summer, closing the studio where she designs commercial displays, she directed arts and crafts at a children's camp.

She recently dined at our house with some other people. One, a young mother, was describing her 6-year-old's pleasure in improvising on the piano. With half-embarrassed, half-defiant earnestness, she said, "I guess we've got a second Van Cliburn on our hands."

One Viennese friend stopped eating. "So your son is a genius, is he?" she asked. "He's discovered that he can make pleasing sounds on your piano—and now he's en route to Carnegie Hall." Then turning to face the young mother, she asked, "Do you know, Madame, what it takes to become a concert artist? Or a painter who sells his paintings? Or an actor who can find a theatre?"

To become a concert artist you teach music for years until you've saved the money to hire your hall, pay for your posters, your publicity. Then you must fill your hall.

"Many, many do not. So the empty seats break many hearts. They say to you, 'You are skillful, my friend—but you are not Horowitz.' And this, you see, you have dreamed you were."

There was quite a pause. Our Viennese friend broke it by addressing me. "I cannot apologize for so speaking at your table. I am angry at parents who must make geniuses out of children. I have met too many this summer."

"On my desk right now is a letter from a woman whose child made a nice ceramic ashtray for me. She wants to know if Rome is the place for him to study professional sculpture."

"My little student must not just have fun with clay. He must be Epstein. I do not understand. So I am angry for him."

I don't understand either. Just as every little boy will not become president of the United States, every artistically skilled child will not become a Picasso, a Van Cliburn or a Judith Anderson. In a lifetime, only 16 little boys will become president. The rest of them will have to put up with other jobs.

Like our Viennese friend, I think it sad that many parents' own frustrated dreams of glory so often deprive children of joy in their skills.

Soviet Schools Lead U.S. In Foreign Language Study

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

The number of pupils in American schools studying any foreign language is a small fraction of the comparable figure for the Soviet Union.

Recent Soviet statistics say that in the U.S.S.R. during the school year 1956-57 about 12 million students in grades 5 through 10 were enrolled in foreign language classes.

In the United States during the school year 1954-55, the latest year for which figures are available, they were roughly 1,400,000 pupils in all grades of elementary and secondary schools of the country studying a foreign language.

Compulsory Study

In Soviet schools, in grades 5 through 10, a foreign language is compulsory. German is the most popular foreign language there.

With 7,651,000 pupils enrolled for it in 1956-57. In the United States in elementary and secondary schools in 1954-55 about 40,000 pupils were studying German.

English was the second most popular language in Soviet schools with 3,306,000 students in 19,300 schools.

For comparison, in the United States in the same school year there were only a dozen secondary schools in the entire United States giving Russian language instruction. With the increased interest in Russian since Sputnik the number of schools giving Russian language courses has jumped this year to approximately 80, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare reports.

Officials of the U.S. Health, education and Welfare Department report there are indications that this current year in the United States the number of students taking foreign languages has increased considerably over the level of 1954-55. A current statistical survey is under way to obtain nationwide figures.

Airborne Course

Army 2d Lt. Bruce P. Mignano, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo R. Mignano, 202 Market Street, Saugerties, recently completed the four-week airborne course at the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Lieutenant Mignano received his parachutist wings after having completed the course, which included five training jumps.

The lieutenant is a 1952 graduate of Saugerties High School and is a 1958 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy.

WILL IT HAPPEN AGAIN?—There are rumblings of a new Communist Berlin blockade. The first one, in 1948-49, was made ineffectual by the famed "airlift." This major air effort by the Allies is typified by the photo, above, which shows a long line of unloaded truck trailers at a Frankfurt airport after the goods had been put into waiting transport planes bound for Berlin. The planes flew around the clock to bring to the western sector of the city the essentials—food, things and people. Now, less than 10 years later, the scenes could be repeated

Christmas Seals

Most of us have received our Christmas seals in the last few days. As always, they're attractive. We'll enjoy using them to seal our holiday greetings and decorate our packages. But, as we all know, their decorative value is the least of it.

The dollars we spend for Christmas seals fight tuberculosis in many different ways. The money raised in each community is spent according to the need. In our area one of the important needs is for more aid for the recovering TB patient, to help him get back on his feet again and stay healthy. In your town the most pressing problem may be to discover unknown active cases that are spreading infection.

Each of the TB associates throughout the country attempts to spend Christmas seal money on a balanced program of TB education, case finding, and rehabilitation suited to specific local problems. Of course, they never seems to be enough money to do everything that could and should be done.

There is one part of the TB control program in which we all share when we make our Christmas seal contributions. That is medical research, the hope for future eradication of TB. Knowledge about TB gained from research has increased rapidly in recent years, but there are large gaps to be filled. Two fundamental problems — the underlying cause of the virulence of the TB germ and the mechanism of human resistance to it—must be solved. The great dream is to find some reliable preventive that could be given to everyone of us.

Until this dream comes true, the TB associations must continue to fight TB with the methods which have already made important gains. We all have a part in this fight when we contribute to our tuberculosis associations through the Christmas seals sale.

Report Sudanese Army Chief Grabs Control in Coup

CAIRO (AP)—The Sudan radio announced today that the Sudanese army commander in chief, Gen. Ibrahim Abboud, had seized power in a coup d'etat.

The government radio in Khartoum, the Sudanese capital, broadcast a declaration in the name of Abboud promising to do his best to achieve good relations with President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

See Army Bid

British sources in London saw Abboud's coup as an army bid to stall a political reconciliation with the U.A.R. They said the news, which was reported to the government by the British mission at Khartoum, was no surprise.

Abboud also ordered immediate dissolution of all political parties, supervision of all newspapers, and prohibition of any demonstrations or political meetings.

The general seized power from the pro-Western government of Prime Minister Abdullah Khalil.

The overthrow of the Khalil regime came as Nasser and the Sudanese government were trying to patch up long-standing differences over division of the Nile waters, their frontiers, and trade matters.

Sought Agreement

The Sudanese Parliament was scheduled to meet later this month and both sides had expressed hope that an agreement would be ready for ratification by that time.

Abboud's military coup upset one of the few parliamentary democracies left in the Middle East. Sudan obtained independence from joint British-Egyptian control Jan. 1, 1956, and since then had maintained a parliamentary system.

The government had sided consistently with the West and frequently had been embroiled in disputes with Nasser's regime.

Like other military chiefs who have seized power in the Middle East and Asia recently, Abboud accused his country's political leaders of corruption and dissension which had hamstrung government operations.

"You should all know to what extent our country has reached in corruption," his radio statement said. "It has reached into government machinery and all authorities without exceptions. All this is due to a political crisis which stands between all political parties."

Seek Solution

"As to the U.A.R.," he continued, "we shall do our best to improve relations between the two countries, to solve all pending problems and remove fabricated dissension."

Khalil became prime minister in July 1956 when his Umma party formed a coalition with the People's Democratic party to bring down the Cabinet of pro-Egyptian Ismail Azhari.

The following figures will give an idea of how government costs have risen, starting in fiscal 1953 when President Truman was still in office and this country was still fighting the Korean War.

Before looking at them, remember a couple of things which keep showing up in these figures: the public debt and a deficit.

In World War II the government was never able to pay its expenses from the revenue it collected, mainly from personal income and corporation taxes.

Borrowing Necessary
So the government had to borrow money. It may never be able to pay that debt in full, but it will have to pay interest on it, with the interest coming from revenue.

The goal of each administration is to meet each year's expenses out of current revenue and have a surplus left over to pay on the debt. When expenses total more than revenue there is a deficit.

For example, in 1948, when defense spending was at a postwar low and just as the cold war was beginning, government expenditures were $33,100,000,000, the public debt was $252,300,000,000 and, instead of a deficit, the government wound up with a surplus of $8,400,000,000.

Now skip to 1953, when the United States was fighting in Korea, giving billions in foreign aid, and developing its atomic weapons and jet aircraft.

In that year expenditures totaled $74,300,000,000, the debt was $261 billion, and the government had a deficit of $9,400,000,000.

In fiscal 1954 expenditures were down to $67,800,000,000, but the public debt was up to $271,300,000,000 and there was a deficit of $3,100,000,000.

In 1955, after Eisenhower had had time to look around, he cut spending to $64,600,000,000. But the debt was up to $274,400,000,000 and there was a deficit of $4,200,000,000.

Last Cut
That was the last year he was able to cut government spending. This has been the score since:

1956—Expenditures, $67½ billion dollars; public debt, $272,800,000,000; and a surplus of $1,600,000,000.

1957—Expenditures, $69,400,000,000; public debt, 270½ billion; and a surplus of $1,600,000,000.

That was the last year Eisenhower had a surplus. From then on the deficit began to soar:

1958—Expenditures, $71,900,000,000; public debt, $276,300,000,000 end a deficit of $2,800,000,000.

Expenditures for the 1959 fiscal year—which ends next June 30—are estimated at almost $80 billion, the public debt at $283,300,000,000 and the deficit at $12,200,000,000.

SEEING THE CITY — Archbishop Makarios, exiled Greek-Cypriot leader, is standing on the balcony of a hotel in New York, where he arrived on November 16th. Ike Calls Spending Dangerous

Intends to Fight Excessive Government Costs in Budget

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has had good intentions about holding down government spending. Despite this, spending has risen.

Now he will try again.

At his Nov. 5 news conference, Eisenhower said that during his final two years in the White House he intends to fight against any excessive spending, which he called dangerous to the nation.

Ever since last summer — as happens every year — agency and department heads have been working on the budget: the President's estimate of what it will cost to run the government in the next fiscal year, starting July 1, 1959. He will submit this budget to Congress in January.

Defense Biggest Item
While Eisenhower has steadily preached economy, expenses have been steadily getting bigger. Biggest spender of all is the Defense Department, thanks especially to inflation and new weapons.

Of the almost 80 billion dollars which the government is expected to spend this year, more than half will be for national defense.

In one economy move, the Pentagon expects to trim 30,000 men from the Army and 25,000 from the Marines.

The following figures will give an idea of how government costs have risen, starting in fiscal 1953 when President Truman was still in office and this country was still fighting the Korean War.

Begin Campaign Against Tammany, DeSapio Ally

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of insurgent Democrats, drawing a bead on Carmine G. DeSapio, formally opened headquarters today for a campaign against Tammany Hall.

The first order of business, according to the FDP Independent Democrats, is "to unseat one of Carmine DeSapio's closest political allies on Manhattan's west side, Dennis J. Mahon."

Mahon is right-hand man to DeSapio because he is chairman of the executive committee, the Tammany inner council, an insurgent spokesman said. DeSapio is the leader of Tammany, the Manhattan Democratic organization.

The insurgents pledged themselves at a membership meeting to elect "district leaders who will carry on the vigorous liberal tradition demanded by Democrats in this area."

Leaders of the insurgents are Theodore S. Weiss, an assistant district attorney, and Mrs. Barbara S. Jonas, a junior high school teacher. The size of the membership was not indicated.

The insurgents are from Manhattan's Fifth Assembly District (north) which runs an irregular course between Central Park West and Riverside Drive and, north to south, from 102nd Street to 886th Street.

Schools to Receive Kits For Fallout Detection
NEW YORK (AP)—An additional 732 public, private and parochial schools in New York State will receive radiological detection kits in the next few weeks.

The State Civil Defense Commission, in making the announcement Sunday said this would bring to 1,218 the number of high schools equipped with kits in the state.

The other 486 schools received their kits last August. The kits are being made available without charge by the U. S. Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization.

They are for use in the schools' science departments to instruct students in radiation detection and defense.

Doctors Warn Picking Spreads Warts! New Discovery Removes Warts Quickly

Amazing New Compound... Used at Home... Removes Common Warts Safely Without Cutting or Burning

New York, N. Y. (Special)—Medical science has linked warts with a contagious virus that may spread them to all parts of the body.

Doctors say picking at warts increases the danger of spreading and urge that they be removed as quickly as possible.

Now science has discovered a new substance that removes these growths safely... without cutting or burning. This substance, in easy-to-use liquid form, dissolves warts, leaving normal, healthy skin.

Reports show this liquid can be safely used at home, even for children. There is no pain, no ugly scarring.

In cases observed by a leading New York skin clinic, this liquid proved its ability to penetrate the wart, destroy its cells, and cause the wart to fall apart and disappear.

The name of this new liquid is Compound W*. It is now available for the first time without prescription at drug counters everywhere for just 98¢. Compound W is guaranteed to remove warts or money refunded.

VANISHING AMERICAN?

For the sake of your future and the future of your country, let's fervently hope not! But the sad fact is that too many gifted teachers are leaving our colleges for better paying positions.

The cause is fundamental. They simply cannot make ends meet on their present low salaries. And, much as they love their work, they are forced to seek jobs in other fields.

In the face of this discouraging trend, more classrooms keep getting more crowded. And by 1967, college applications are expected to double.

It's time to put a stop to this nonsense. Won't you help? Help the college of your choice now. The returns will be greater than you think.

If you want to know more about what the college crisis means to you, write for a free booklet to: HIGHER EDUCATION, Box 36, Times Square Station, New York 36, New York.

Costume Fire Fatal

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — An 11-year-old girl died in a hospital Sunday night of burns she suffered Halloween eve when her costume dress caught fire from a Jack-O'-Lantern.

Russell MacQuivey, a factory worker, said his daughter Kathleen was setting down the candle-lantern when her chintz costume made by her mother, knocked off the lantern's top and touched the flame inside.

Kingston High Romps Over Winless Middletown Club, 41-0

Win Sets Stage For Showdown Battle With NFA

Middletown's winless football team made a gallant first half stand at Wilson field Saturday, but a tenacious Kingston club rolled for two touchdowns in each of the third and fourth periods to skunk the Middies, 41-0, before a sparse rain drenched crowd. It was the 23rd straight tilt without a loss for Kingston.

Since Newburgh Free Academy gridders defeated Poughkeepsie at the Bridge City, it left Kingston and NFA in a tie for first place and sets the stage for their titanic battle on Thanksgiving Day with everything on the line, including an unbeaten season for both clubs.

The contest was never in doubt after the first six minutes of the game, but the crowd admired Middletown for some fired-up play during the first half. The team held the high powered Maroon offense to a pair of well earned touchdowns and trotted off the field very much in the contest.

However, Coach Bill Burke's gridders roared in the second half, even though ace back Hobie Armstrong was kept under wraps. He carried the pigskin for only a few plays in the opening moments of the contest and then sat the rest of the way as the field was muddy and slippery.

Two Scoring Passes

Quarterback Jerry McDonough tossed scoring passes to ends Dave O'Connor and Terry Kalish for the first half touchdowns. The vaunted ground attack of the Kingstonites picked up during the final 30 minutes as halfback John Parete scored on an 18 yard run, McDonough banged over from the two on a quarterback sneak, and halfback Bob Beadle went over from the two and then climaxed a pleasant afternoon by scampering 34 yards after intercepting a pass.

The Middies did not pose a serious threat. In fact they went until almost the end of the contest before making a first down and that came on a penalty. Moments later the hapless home club made a well earned first down, on a pass and a short plunge.

Middies Win Toss

Middletown won the toss and elected to receive. Four plays later the Middies were forced to kick and Kingston put the leather in play on the 46 and scored in nine plays. Parete, the KHS workhorse, carried four times in the drive and McDonough completed two passes, the first for 14 yards to O'Connor and the other for 23 yards to the same O'Connor. That last completion scored the touchdown. "Mac" then tossed a floater to O'Connor for the extra point.

The visitors started a drive on the 44 late in the first quarter and finally pushed over another score in the opening moments of the second period when McDonough passed to Kalish for 27 yards and a TD. Fullback Tony Uhl bucked for the point.

Just before halftime, Beadle galloped 35 yards to the Middletown five to show the Middies what they were for during the second half row.

The Maroon took the third quarter kickoff, put it in play on the 48, and scored in seven plays. Parete scooted 17 for a big first down and then from the MHS 18, he circled end for the score. Uhl again bucked for the extra point.

Just four plays later, the Middies ran three and had to punt for the sixth time. Burke's gridders started another sustained drive and climaxed it when McDonough rammed into the center of the line from the two. Parete again was the big gainer, carrying for 24, six, three and five yards. Uhl ran over for the extra point to hike the margin to 28-0.

Reserves Take Over
Reserves played practically the entire fourth period and Vince Smedes handled McDonough's role at quarterback.

Beadle, who played a bang-up game in place of Armstrong, gained 15 yards in two plays and reserve fullback Tom Cragan banged for 11 more. Beadle scored from the two to climax a 60 yard march and Dick Decker went for the point.

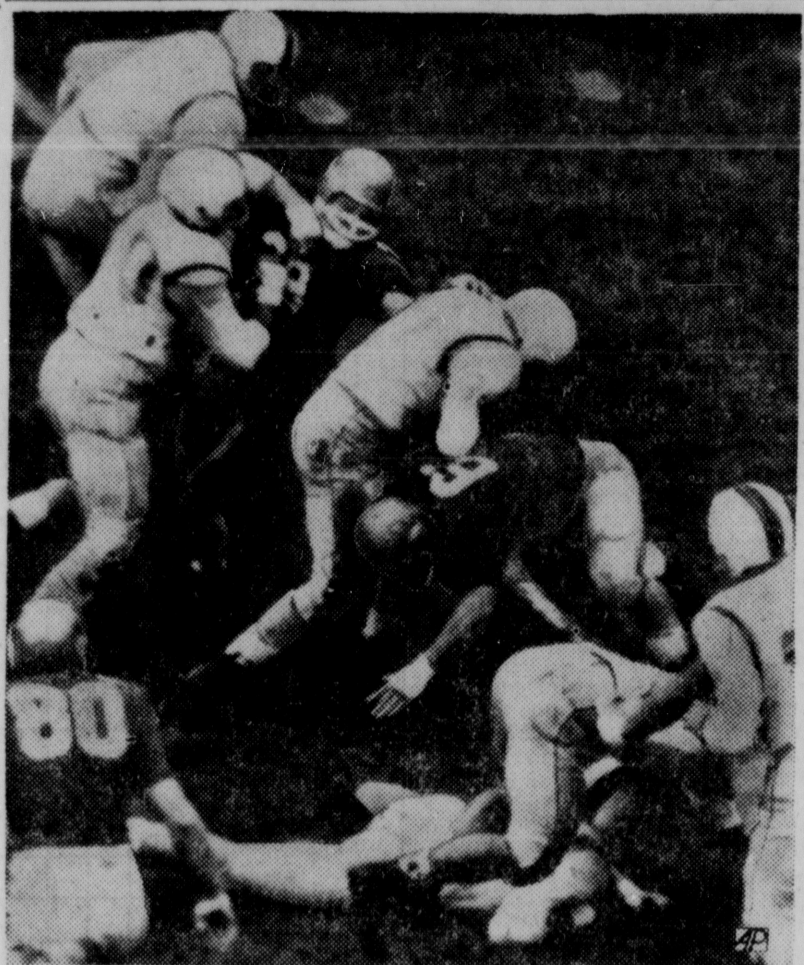

A desperation Middletown pass was snagged by Beadle on the MHS 35 during the waning moments of the tilt and Big Bob simply outran the stunned Middies. The point try misfired.

With the clock running out, Middletown moved to a pair of first downs, the only two of the contest and had the pigskin on the Kingston 19, but quarterback Billy Sherlock was thrown for a ten and then a four yard loss while attempting to pass. The contest ended with Kingston in possession on the MHS 41. It was just as well because the home team couldn't stop the invaders.

The statistics tell the cold story. Middletown had only two first downs and lost 30 yards rushing. The club did gain 17 yards in the air and the result for the day was a minus 13 yards. Kingston, playing just straight, hard football, netted 332 yards on the turf and picked up 72 in the air.

NFA Trims Pioneers, 26-13, to Remain Unbeaten

Cotton Stars For Goldbacks

Quarterback Charley Cotton exploded for two last quarter touchdowns against Poughkeepsie High School football players Saturday at the Bridge City and Newburgh Free Academy's eleven roared to a 26-13 success to stay undefeated in seven starts.

Until Cotton went 47 yards with an intercepted pass, it was a one-point squeaker with the Pioneers filling the air with aerials in a desperate attempt at an upset. Then the ensuing kickoff was fumbled on the PHS 39 and on the first play Cotton buried the Pioneer hopes as he sprinted up the middle to the end zone.

Three touchdowns had been jammed into the first quarter, Poughkeepsie getting two of them, and the rain-soaked spectators settled down for what apparently was going to be a scoring orgy. But the Pioneers were shutout the rest of the way while NFA forged to the front via a third period payoff.

This was the first annual "homecoming" game for Poughkeepsie and it was a good one, as advertised.

Score Early

The Pioneers had an early chance when John Watkins fell on a Newburgh fumble on the NFA 42 but the attack stalled and PHS punted. The ball was robbed and Larry Levine recovered on Newburgh's 25. Jim Gordon picked up 10 and then flipped 10 yards to end Dick DeLano for the six-pointer. Joe Molinaro's kick was low.

Newburgh got a touchdown in rapid fashion. The team put the ball in play on its 34 and had the equalizer in just six plays, the last of which was a pass from Cotton to Gordon Fox, good for 45 yards. Gary Griffin's placement put NFA in front, 7-6.

Levine fled to the NFA 42 with the kickoff and the Pioneers zipped to the lead as Gordon again hit DePew with a pass, this one for 24 yards, following an 18-yard run by fullback Gary Martin. Molinaro threw to DePew for the point.

Early in the third quarter, Newburgh took the lead for keeps on a pass from Cotton to Leroy Riley, good for 26 yards. Griffin again converted.

Unable to get into the Newburgh sector in the second half, the pioneers kept pegging away with passes. The only trouble was that Newburgh intercepted some of them. Cotton caught one on the 47 and ran to a TD on a picture play. The fumble on the kickoff and Cotton's second touchdown followed.

Moore Bidding For Title Shot

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Remember the great U.S. Olympic boxing team of 1952 which won five gold medals? Floyd Patterson, now the world pro heavyweight king, was one of the quintet. He captured the middleweight crown at Helsinki.

Among the five non-winners, however, were Dave Moore of Springfield, Ohio, and Spider Webb of Chicago. Both are going strong in the pro ranks along with many of the other onetime amateurs who fought for glory at Helsinki, Finland.

Moore, now the leading featherweight contender, makes his bid for a world title shot at Los Angeles Thursday night in a non-television ten-rounder. He faces Mexico's Ricardo (Pajarto) Moreno.

If Dave gets by the hard-punching Moreno, as he is favored to do, he will get a title crack at world featherweight king Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria. Bassey kayaved Moreno in the third round of a title tilt at Los Angeles last April.

Although he is sometimes billed as an Olympic champion, Moore only reached the quarter-finals. Webb was knocked out in the first round of the light middleweight competition by Hungary's great Laszlo Papp, the only three-time winner in Olympic boxing history.

Webb has taken long strides in the pro ranks, too. The Spider, a high ranking middleweight contender, takes on Joey Giardello, another top middleweight from Philadelphia, in a ten-round television scrap at San Francisco's Cow Palace Wednesday night.

Undefeated season records of Rochester and Hamilton flattered bravely today in the tornado of Syracuse-bowl talk that dominated Upstate New York college football.

Cornell was dumped from the top of the Ivy League by Dartmouth Saturday at Ithaca and no longer vies with Syracuse for top attention.

Syracuse crushed Colgate, 47-0; at Syracuse and moved higher on the list of potential recipients of bids to the Orange and Cotton Bowls.

Rochester routed Rensselaer Poly, 34-7, at Troy and ended its season with eight victories in eight games.

Hamilton stopped visiting Union, 18-0, and closed out its football year with six wins and one tie.

Buffalo beat Lehigh, 34-26, at Lehigh. Hobart fell to Upsala, 27-12, at East Orange, N. J.

Most games were played on muddy fields in driving rainstorms.

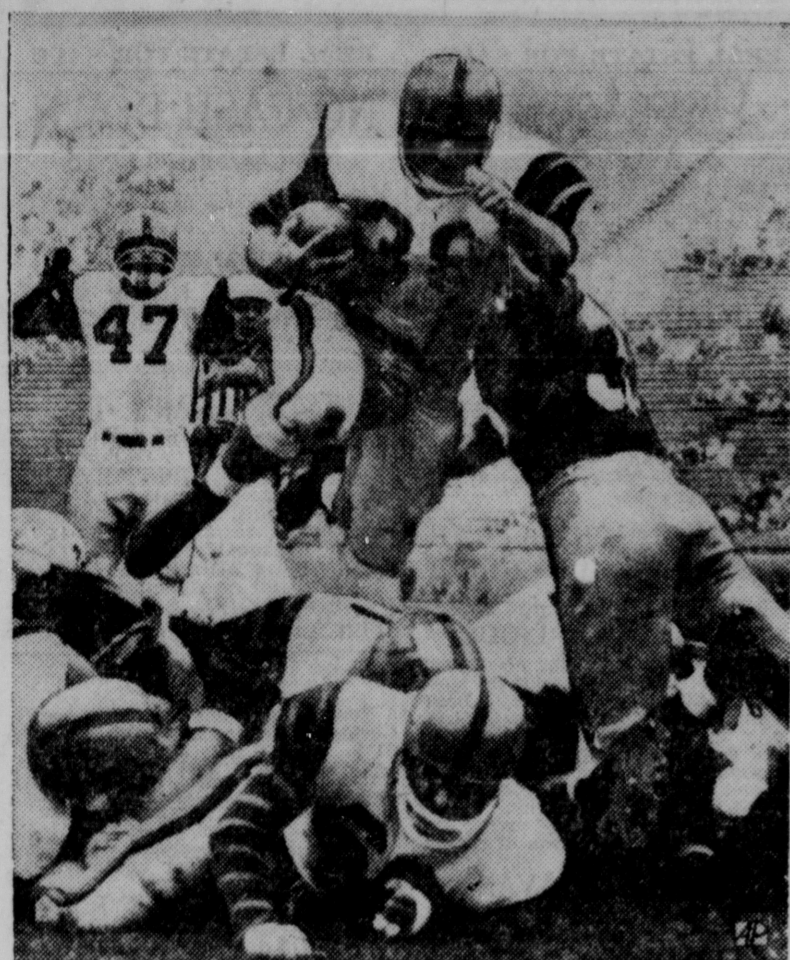

West Virginia Next

Syracuse plays at West Virginia Saturday in the only game left on the regular Orange schedule. Syracuse has 7 victories and 1 loss so far this season.

Quarterback Chuck Zimmerman scored three touchdowns against Colgate Saturday. Dick Reimer, a reserve halfback, scored two. The others came from Ger Schwedes and Bobby Hart, a third-stringer.

The Syracuse victory was its 23rd in a 59-game rivalry with the Raiders. There have been five ties.

Ulsterites Get Second Straight DCSL Grid Title

After two years of trying, teams in the Dutchess County Scholastic Football league are still unsuccessful in beating Highland. Saturday at Beacon, the Highlanders notched their second straight circuit championship and closed the season with a fine 6-1 record by romping to a 26-6 decision over the home club. With the loss, Beacon finished in third position, two games behind the champions.

The final DCSL standings:

Team	Won	Lost
Highland	0
Wappingers Falls	1
Beacon	2
Saugerties	3
Roosevelt	4
Arlington	5

Bob Relyea's rockets rolled up a four touchdown margin before permitting Beacon to pick up a consolation score. Quarterback Phil Bezzaro was the leader, ably assisted by Ralph Penny and Archie Williams in the backfield and end Bill Phillips.

Bezzaro uncorked his first aerial to Penny for 11 yards and a touchdown in the final seconds of the first period. It was the first play after Highland had pounced on a loose pigskin as a bad pass from center on fourth down eluded the Beacon quarterback.

The winners marched to another score in the second quarter, grabbing a kick on the 35 and reaching paydirt in six plays. Two nifty runs by Penny and Williams were featured in the drive and from the six, Bezzaro fired a short pass to Penny for the score. The star quarterback ran around left end for the extra point.

Bezzaro started Beacon with a 64 yard scamper in the third period, taking a kick on his 20 and reaching the opposition 16 before being halted. However, on the next play, he circled end for the remaining distance. Williams ran for the point.

The last touchdown for Highland was the result of a pass, this time a seven yard toss from Bezzaro to Phillips, culminating a 60 yard march in nine plays. Beacon came to life in the fourth quarter after recovering a fumble with a little better than six minutes left. A 16 yard pass from quarterback Fred Ware to end John Pavelock was the payoff. The contest ended moments later with the ball near midfield.

Ott's Condition Remains Unchanged
 GULFPORT, Miss. (AP)—The condition of Mel Ott, former New York Giant slugger and baseball Hall of Famer, and his wife was unchanged today.

Both were injured critically Friday night in a two-vehicle highway crash at nearby Bay St. Louis. The collision killed the driver of the other car, Leslie C. Curry of Bay St. Louis.

Hospital spokesmen said Ott was "holding his own." He underwent surgery Saturday. Physicians plan surgery for his wife later.

HANKER CLARKE JOINS ABC TRIPPLICATE CLUB

Hanker Clarke, former Kingston High School football star who rolls leadoff for Wally's Wallopers in the Rotron League is the newest member of the ABC Triplicate Club.

Clarke put together three games of 165 to qualify for the American Bowling Congress shoulder patch in the last session of the Rotron league. His total was 495.

HERB PETERSEN was No. 1 shooter in the Rotron League with a 555 string on solos of 171, 193 and 191. Frank Liebel fired 512, Fred Ferraro 205-546, Joe Greenberg 517 and Don Vandervlyn 509; team results: Spoilers 1, Petersen Panthers 2; Sharpshooters 2½, Deyo's Devils ½; Woody's Wonders 1, Yankee Boys 2; Red's Rollers 1, Wally's Wallopers 2.

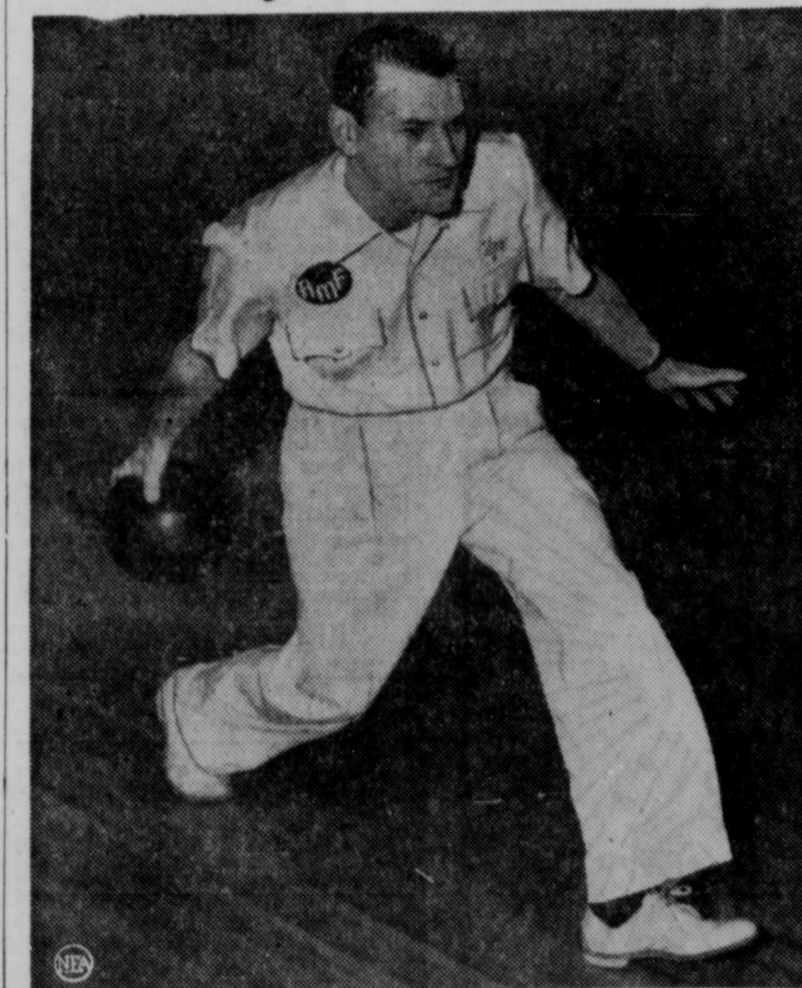

ELWOOD ROBINSON spliced games of 193, 181 and 189 for 563 high triple in the YMCA Mercantile League. Fred Orr was runnerup with 221-540; team results: Boice No. 2 (1), Boice No. 1 (2); Stewart's Ice Cream 3, Renps Service Station 0; Mehms Market 2, Canfield's 1; Skyline Checkers 1, Skyline Shippers 2; Skyline Trim 1, Fullers 2; Skyline Stock 0, Fuller No. 1 (3); Skyline Office 1, Fuller Shippers 2.

McCardle's Heating has opened up a 3½-game lead over Spiegel Brothers Paper Company in the Matinee Club League. Miriam Posner, the league secretary, paces the individual averages with a hefty 158 for 27 games.

Hunting Season Opens; No Early Kill Reported

Thousands of Ulster county hunters joined the annual stampede in search of the elusive buck today, complementing the horde of nimrods who have been in the woods since the Adirondack and northern counties season opened on Oct. 25.

For the first time in many years, the sports department did not receive an early report of a deer being bagged at 7:01 a. m. The season got under way at 7 a. m., you know. Later reports might uphold the annual tradition, but, as of deadline, there had been no reports of catches.

Hunters faced generally cloudy and cool weather with rain and drizzle in many sectors.

The big-game season closes, with a few exceptions, on Dec. 2. The game limit is one deer and one bear.

There is no hunting season on Long Island or in New York City. Also excluded are parts of Albany County, all of Montgomery County and parts of the Buffalo and Rochester areas.

Otherwise, the season opened today in Eastern counties, including the Catskills, and in Central and Western New York.

Exceptions to the Dec. 2 closing date are in Delaware, Greene, Ulster and Sullivan counties. There, the deer season will continue to Dec. 17.

In Westchester County, hunters using a long-bow may take deer until Dec. 31. That special season opened Saturday.

Six hunters have been reported killed so far in the big-game season.

Two Deaths Reported

There were two deaths last weekend.

Melvin Walker, 34, of Gloversville, was shot and killed early Saturday morning while on a night hunting party. Charges of "jacking" were placed against two men who had been hunting with him.

The two, Fayette Wilson, 30, of Gloversville, and Leonard Frasier, 29, of Northville, were ordered held for the grand jury when arraigned later Saturday before a peace justice.

They were charged with using a spotlight to lure deer within range, a practice illegal under State Conservation Law.

Fulton County sheriff's deputies said there would be no charges as a result of the shooting death. Wilson told the deputies he stumbled and his gun went off. The bullet hit Walker.

Alden G. Makin, 22, of Malone, was killed Saturday near his home community by a bullet from the rifle of a fellow hunter, Wayne J. Marlow, 17, of Whippleville.

Archie's Gag Man

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A large box of roses was passed to the stage for light heavyweight boxing champion Archie Moore after he had played a minor role in the Star-Light Opera Co.'s "Carmen Jones." Under the roses he found a ham, from his boxing manager, Nate Rosenberg.

5 Missing in Severe

Arizona Winter Storm

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Posses were out looking for five persons missing in Arizona after one of the most severe early winter storms in years.

Missing were three Boy Scouts from Tucson and two hunters from Phoenix.

Posses headed into the Santa Rita Mountains this morning looking for Mike Early, 17, Michael Lanoue, 13, and David Greenberg, 12, the missing scouts.

A posse headed into the Munds Park area south of Flagstaff looking for Jim R. Rhoden, 28, a Phoenix hunter last seen Saturday morning.

From Prescott, another posse was working in the rugged Camp Verde area seeking Robert Schooley, 34, another Phoenix hunter, reported missing.

The storm dropped 14 inches of snow at Flagstaff in the North, and left two inches at usually warm Tucson and a thin white blanket over other southern desert areas where snow is a rarity.

If shallots are available in your market, try adding a small one (minced) to a green salad.

Local Man Injured

In Ulster Accident

Edward Albricht, 43, of 9 Green Street, was admitted to Kingston Hospital Saturday afternoon with minor injuries when his 1958 sedan skidded on wet pavement on Route 9W about a quarter of a mile south of Sheehan Lane, town of Ulster, and flipped over.

He was taken to the hospital by a passerby. Details of his injuries were not available but were described as minor.

Trooper Richard Ryan of the Kingston state police said Albricht was proceeding south when he touched his brakes, which locked, causing the vehicle to skid and turn over. Time of the mishap was 1:15 p. m. Saturday.

Winter Weather

Moves Southwest

From Rocky Mts.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wintry weather spread into southwestern sections of the country today after the season's first general blizzard pounded the Rocky Mountain region and northern Plains' over the weekend.

Heavy snow covered wide areas, with falls ranging to several feet in the mountains to four inches at the Mexican border. Temperatures dropped below zero in higher elevations.

Heavy snow warnings continued in effect from New Mexico northward through the Panhandle area and western parts of Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas.

Mild in East
Unseasonably mild weather continued in most of the eastern half of the country. It also was wet and many areas reported high humidity.

The cold belt covered areas from the Pacific Ocean eastward across the Rockies through the Dakotas and into northern Minnesota. The temperature dropped to 40 in Los Angeles and 36 in San Francisco.

Temperatures in most of the northern and central plateaus and Rockies were from 10 to 20 degrees, with below zero readings in the higher Rockies. One of the low marks was 9 below at Evanston, Wyo.

Snow on Border
Snow fell in southern border sections of New Mexico and Arizona, with a four-inch covering at Douglas, Ariz., and three inches at Columbus, N.M.

More than four inches of fresh snow whitened North Dakota areas with amounts ranging to a foot in some sections and four to six inches in other parts of the snow belt.

In the warm air to the east of the stormy weather, temperatures were in the 70s during the night in most of Texas and the lower Mississippi Valley.

Damage Minor
Tornadoes and strong winds skipped through sections of southern Illinois and northwestern Missouri Sunday night. Damage was minor and no injuries were reported. The twisters struck near Maryville, Mo., and in the southern Illinois areas of Centralia and Sandoval.

High winds ripped into a residential area in Abilene, Tex., damaging two homes early today. There apparently was no tornado funnel. No injuries were reported.
